16 Dead, Hundreds Homeless in Dixie Floods

Crops Are Lost, Mills Damaged In Five States

Roads, Bridges Washed Out; Three Drown Near Augusta.

By the Associated Press
Rampaging rivers wrought death and destruction yesterday in five southern states.

Abnormally heavy rainfall in the wake of a hurricane that battered the South Carolina-Georgia coast Sunday sent the swift streams swirling out of their banks washing out highways and bridges, destroying lowland crops and causing millions of dollars damage to industrial plants along their banks, and driving hundreds of persons from their homes.

At least 16 deaths were attributed to the floods. North Carolina counted two drownings and four deaths in landslides. Three drownings were reported near Galax, Va., three near Elizabethton, Tenn., and three near Augusta, Ga. A Negro woman near Augusta died of a heart attack when she learned that the flood waters were approaching her home.

Water Shortage.

A 100-foot washout of Asheville's principal water main forced this tourists' mecca of 51,000 to use sparingly water from a single reservoir. Officials expressed confidence that the line could be repaired by tomorrow and that the reservoir would provide sufficient water until then.

North Wilkesboro, industrial mountain town of 4,000 about 125 miles northeast, apparently was the hardest hit.

The flooded Yadkin river, which rose to record heights, swept over streets and damaged 14 industrial plants. Two burned as the water rose about them. The town, isolated, was without water, light or telephone facilities.

Losses in Millions.

Property damage there was estimated at $2,000,000, and Mayor R. P. McNeill said for Wilkes county as a whole it probably would reach $10,000,000. He said 500 were homeless and 2,500 out of work.

Police Chief John Walker expressed fear that many had drowned before they could be warned of the rapidly rising waters. The city called on the Red Cross, meanwhile giving food and shelter to the needy. The water was fast receding tonight.

Landslides blocked highways all over the mountain area. Two persons were crushed to death in two slides near Boone.

Witnesses said the raging torrents in some places picked up buildings and tossed them about like matchboxes in a gutter. Hundreds of bridges were swept away.

Italians Rage at British Fliers For Bombing Industrial Cities

During Raiders Reported To Have Crossed Alps To Attack Great Centers; 22 Killed, 50 Injured; Leaflets Also Dropped.

(Picture on Page 13.)

ROME, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Squadrons of long-range British bombers thundered over the Alps and down on the great industrial cities of northern Italy early today, killing 22 persons, injuring more than 50 and stirring the rage of Fascists at what they called "a barbarous and cowardly attack."

(Reprisal bombing attacks on British cities were predicted by high Fascist quarters, a United Press dispatch reported.)

The Italians said the British bombers crossed neutral Switzerland and scattered explosives and propaganda leaflets at random in the residential districts of Milan, Turin, Tortona and Alessandria. The leaflets told Italians to wake up to their use as vassals "by your hereditary enemy, Germany," to "make Hitler stronger."

Authorities insisted there was no military damage (but British accounts said the Caproni factory in Milan and the Fiat plant in Turin, two of Italy's principal plane works, were "smashed" and set afire; that the blaze from the Caproni plant could be seen for miles.

The heaviest attack was at Milan, where 12 persons were killed and 44 injured by 30 explosive and incendiary bombs.

Still another British raid was carried out over Augusta, naval base in Sicily. Naval anti-aircraft was said to have shot down a British torpedo plane.

The surprise attacks on the larger cities, first since early in the war, brought home to the inhabitants their danger even from Britain, which most of them had considered harmlessly far away. Italian dispatches from Bern,

Never Follow Atlanta To Get A Republican, Naval Reserve Writer Learns Aviation Base

Tramp Through Mud
Far Back in Mountains

By LUKE GREENE.

JASPER, Ga., Aug. 14.—If there should be a moral to this story it would be this—don't ever follow a Republican.

At least don't follow him too far. Certainly not to the last frontier of mountainous Pickens county.

Setting out on a political expedition early this morning with a companion, Horace McEver, we came at last to the rolling hills of north Georgia—the hinterlands of the Republicans.

And by chance Roscoe Pickett Jr., a native of Jasper and as devout a Republican as ever breathed this refreshing mountain air, fell upon us and inveigled us into taking a trip into the depths of the Blue Ridge hills to see a one-time Harvard professor who migrated to Georgia to get away from civilization and come closer to God.

The professor, whose name is E. C. Perrow, had some very unusual ideas about government and might have the making of a good political story, our friend Pickett said. But the sad part of it was that the professor lived at the end of a mountain trail approximately eight miles from the paved highway.

At last we decided to make the trip. We set out over the mud-splashed and storm-strewn mountain road that had only one rut in which to travel.

The car bounced and quivered and threatened to take to the ditch as we forged, like Daniel Boone, farther and farther into

Atlanta To Get Naval Reserve Aviation Base

A new naval reserve aviation base will be established in Atlanta by the Navy Department, Secretary Knox announced yesterday in Washington as he outlined plans for an expansion of preliminary training facilities for navy fliers.

The new base probably will be located on the old Camp Gordon site which the WPA is to develop into an airport, Atlantans said last night.

However, no details of the navy's plans for the Atlanta training school have been given officially here.

A Naval Reserve board was in Atlanta a month ago searching for adequate facilities for the new flying school, it was recalled.

Winship Nunnally, chairman of the aviation committee of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, and Lieutenant Commander Harry F. Dobbs, commanding the Naval Reserve Battalion here, said they had heard the new base would be located in Atlanta, but had no detailed information.

Candler field has too much traffic already to locate the base there, it was said.

National Guard as Divided As Congress on Mobilization

Troops Worried Over What Will Happen to Dependents and Debts; 5 to 28 Per Cent
Expected To Withdraw.

CAMP BEAUREGARD, La., Aug. 14.—(AP)—National Guardsmen, assembled here in large scale maneuvers for war games beginning tomorrow, have the subject of mobilization uppermost in their minds—and they appear as divided on the subject as the nation's congressmen themselves.

Their principal concern if called out for a year's active duty revolved around what would happen to their dependents and to their debts.

General George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, who checked the matter with higher officers who had checked it down to company commanders, today said estimates ran from 5 to 28 per cent of the guardsmen who would withdraw if the guards are called out for a year's service, and they are permitted to resign.

He thought the average withdrawals would be about 12 per cent, he said, which would be replaced by enlistments and conscription if the present bill passed congress.

Status Important.

The attitude among the guardsmen themselves seems to depend entirely upon their rank and their civilian status. Officers questioned here, where nearly 50,000 guards have been assembled from 13 southern states, appeared almost all in favor of the mobilization. Noncommissioned officers generally favored it. The principal opposition and chance of withdrawals was noted among the privates.

A cross section of sentiment today ran like this:

A Louisiana noncom: "They shouldn't have joined if they hadn't considered the possibility we'd be called out." A Dallas, Texas, officer: "Personally I'd like to go. I can support my family on an officer's pay and my business which runs itself. Many of these

Nazi 'Suicide' Chutists Sought In Midlands

Britain Carries Offensive to Nazis From Calais to Le Havre.

By ROBERT E. BUNNELLE.
Associated Press Staff Writer.

Wailing alarm sirens heard across the English channel from the Nazi-held coast of France early today signaled vast British counterattacks on Germany's blitzkrieg bases.

Reports reaching the southeast coast of England, backed by what could actually be seen and heard across the channel, indicated that the Royal Air Force smashed its counter blows along perhaps 100 miles of the coast where Nazis are massed nearest to England.

Long after midnight and on toward dawn the scream of the sirens could be heard.

Thundering Explosions.

Giant flashes that lit the sky told of the thundering explosions with which British bombers paid back in kind for the pounding of southeastern England.

The British attacks apparently ranged from Calais, 20 miles across the channel from Dover, to the big port of Le Havre.

From an observation point at the southeastern tip of England the dull thud of bombings could be heard as an undertone to the siren scream.

Searchlights pierced up into the darkness in long luminous fingers both on the French and English sides of the channel that has become the No-Man's Land of the Battle of Britain.

Fire Lights Sky.

Somewhere between Calais and Le Havre glowed the light of a huge fire—like the half-risen sun. An hour after the first sound of the attack flashes in the distant sky indicated that the bombing and the fire from enemy ground batteries was continuing unabated.

In one hour more than 100 bomb flashes were seen along the coast of France. Other splashes of light that might have been flares or signals could be distinguished.

Overheard there was the drone of airplane motors. It was not immediately determined whether they signaled a hit-back raid by the Nazis or reinforcements for the British attackers.

Britain's own coastal guards were alert but reported no signs of new German attack.

(From Berlin the United Press reported German "suicide squads" of parachutists, under orders to sabotage British defenses and open the way for Hitler's overseas invasion, had been landed in England as a prelude to "infinitely fiercer" aerial assaults.

(The parachute squads—vanguard of previous German invasions—were landed Tuesday in the vicinity of Manchester and Birmingham to

Mexican Peasants Shoot Down Nine

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 14.—(UP) Nine persons, including a woman and child, were wounded tonight when a contingent of peasants from Pachuca began firing from trucks bringing them to Mexico City.

Most of those wounded were reported to be in serious condition. The peasants were en route here to participate in a demonstration tomorrow sponsored by the Mexican Revolutionary party (PRM) and were brought here by party leaders.

WPA Requests Camp Gordon Airport Funds

$500,000 North Side
Field Would Relieve Congestion at Candler

Officials of the WPA regional office here yesterday forwarded to Washington the state-approved application for a $500,000 north-side airport at Camp Gordon to provide additional military and other air-training facilities and relieve congestion at Candler Field.

The application will go to Colonel F. C. Harrington, national administrator, and will be referred to the secretary of war for certification as a necessary defense project.

How soon action could be expected by the War Department was said to be a matter of conjecture, because of the number of similar applications from points throughout the country.

The port is to contain 315 acres in an area bounded by Hardee avenue and the Buford highway and Carroll avenue and Candler road. It will have three runways of 3,800 feet each, and two hangars at the start.

DeKalb county will furnish the land, the WPA the labor, and funds for material and supplies will come from a federal allocation of defense appropriations.

Selection of arbitrators to fix the price of 160 acres near Candler Field to extend the east-west runway 2,000 feet still was in progress yesterday. Mayor Hartsfield said early settlement was expected, so that the long-awaited expansion there could be put under way.

Train Kills Girl, 13, Near Mina Station

A 13-year-old Negro girl was killed by a train on the Seaboard railroad near Mina station yesterday afternoon, county police reported.

She was listed as Nora Ethel Ison, of a Pine street address. Officers said the girl was walking along the tracks with several other persons and somehow had failed to get off before the train struck her. Mina station is between Atlanta and Emory University station, near Piedmont road.

700 Airplanes Ordered by U.S. For Training

Difficulties Delaying Orders for 4,200 Ships
Virtually Overcome.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Difficulties which have delayed the signing of contracts for 4,200 Army warplanes were reported virtually surmounted today while in another field of national defense—the Navy—Secretary Knox announced that four new destroyers were being completed ahead of schedule.

At the same time, the War Department announced that an $11,335,631 contract for approximately 700 training airplanes and spare parts had been signed with North American Aviation, Inc., Inglewood, Cal. The delivery dates were not disclosed.

More than a dozen other manufacturers have agreed tentatively to sign provisional contracts, without waiting for congress to approve legislation designed to clear away uncertainty over taxes and profits, it was reported by persons familiar with the long negotiations between the manufacturers and defense officials.

Contracts for some 4,200 army planes of all types and a small number of naval aircraft, for which congress voted more than $400,000,000 in June, had been delayed pending attempts to clear away the uncertainties.

Provisional contracts for the remainder of the 4,200 Army planes were said authoritatively to be nearing the point of signature. They contained clauses to protect the manufacturers against loss in the event congress failed to enact or materially alters the pending legislation which lifts an existing 8 per cent limitation on profits, permits amortization of the cost of new plants in five years, and levies a tax on excess profits.

Because of the uncertainties, Secretary of War Stimson said last week that the Army had been able to sign contracts for only 33 planes out of the 4,200 appropriated for in June. An additional 15,000 planes is contemplated in the $5,000,000,000 defense program submitted subsequently to congress by President Roosevelt.

Hungarians Leave For Claims Parley

BUDAPEST, Aug. 14.—(AP)—A Hungarian delegation left for Turin-Severin, Rumania, tonight to begin formal negotiations this weekend with King Carol's representatives over Hungary's claims for the return of the rich Transylvania province.

Pessimism was apparent in Hungarian quarters. Diplomatic sources expressed belief the conference was destined to fail and would be followed by German arbitration.

Senate Votes Army Pay Raise To $30 Monthly

Knox Pleads, for Conscription
Legislation
Before House Body.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Taking its first specific action during the present conscription debate, the senate today approved an amendment to the draft bill raising the basic army pay from $21 to $30 a month.

Critics of conscription have repeatedly urged such an increase, arguing that it would speed up enlistments and help provide manpower for the army by the volunteer method, with no need for conscription. However, administration forces also had endorsed the idea, so that the senate's decision was not considered a test on the bill itself.

Offered by Senator Lee, Democrat, Oklahoma, a supporter of conscription, the army pay increase amendment provides that voluntary recruits and draftees in the army and Marine Corps shall be paid $21 a month during their first four months of training and then, if their rating is satisfactory, their base pay shall be increased to $30. Increases also would be granted to some other classes of enlisted men, and the cost was estimated at $70,000,000 this fiscal year.

Knox Makes Appeal.

Before the House Military Committee Secretary of the Navy Knox vigorously urged the enactment of conscription legislation. He said that if England is defeated the United States, lacking a two-ocean navy, will need a huge and well-trained land force. The United States faces a "grave crisis," he said, because if England falls this country would be "left without a friend in the world."

"This fight over England—we're not getting the whole truth about it," he said. "We don't really know what the extent of the British losses are. . . . If we had a 3,000,000-ton navy we'd unquestionably control the Atlantic and Pacific oceans and we'd not be under the necessity of having a huge army. But we haven't got that navy and won't have it until 1946."

War Department officials said today that all units of the National Guard would be in active service by January 1, 1941, if congress approves training legislation now pending.

Revised Schedule.

Yesterday the army disclosed that its revised schedule called for summoning 220,000 guardsmen to duty. They said the first group, consisting of 55,000 men, would be called September 15, and the others at intervals during the fall.

During the day Senator Pepper, Democrat, of Florida, took the floor in the senate to express his belief that the President should be granted "full war-time powers" to marshal industry for defense.

Senator Wheeler, Democrat, of Montana, expressed belief that Pepper was "close to insiders" of the administration and that the program of "aid short of war" to the Allies, conscription and industrial mobilization advocated by the Florida senator was the program which congress was following at the administration's behest.

Pepper replied that at all times he had been speaking "for nobody but myself."

"Then I congratulate the senator," Wheeler said, "that the administration has followed his suggestion."

Urges Ship Transfers.
Pepper also told the senate that he favored letting England have "whatever number of destroyers we might dispense with without imperiling the defenses of this country."

Using "discretion and judgment," he said, the nation should "interpose such force as is necessary" to prevent conquest of England by its enemies.

From Defense Commissioner William S. Knudsen legislators received a memorandum saying that equipment for any army of 2,000,000 could be provided by October 1, 1943. Equipment for 1,200,000 (the strength now planned by

Modifications Of Profits Tax Win Support

Congressional Hearings End, Measure To Be Ready Next Week.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Congressional hearings on an excess profits tax were concluded today with some committee members expressing approval of at least three modifications which witnesses had recommended:

1. That corporations be permitted to select any three years from 1936 through 1939 as a "base period" for computing their normal earnings instead of all four years.

2. That the five-year amortization plan apply to any plant expansion undertaken in connection with the defense program after January 1 of this year, instead of only after June 10, the day the White House announced that the plan would be recommended.

3. That financially related corporations be permitted to file consolidated returns.

Chairman Doughton, Democrat, North Carolina, of the House Ways and Means Committee, said that the legislative draftsmen were having difficulty putting the proposals into legal language but predicted that the measure would be ready for the house next week.

The final witness, W. R. Ogg, of Washington, presented a statement from the president of the American Farm Bureau Federation which said the farm organization was "concerned" over "frequently recurring reports" that the defense program was being delayed by the "unwillingness of industrial management to enter into contracts unless this or that assurance is given to industry."

army officials) could be provided, he said, by the end of 1942.

In the house a contention by Representative May, Democrat, of Kentucky, that the President should be given authority to call the militia and army reserves to 12-month active duty because of "alarming conditions abroad" drew from Representative Hoffman, Republican, of Michigan, the reply that the "only emergency" was the administration's "worry about the third term."

The debate took place during house consideration of senate-approved legislation empowering the President to mobilize these military units and send them anywhere in the western hemisphere or the Philippines.

Batavia Mines 'Ghosts' To Rise Oil Wells To Against Hitler, Cheat Invaders Eden Predicts

Women, Children Moved From Danger Spots in East Indies.

BATAVIA, Dutch East Indies, Aug. 14.—(AP)—All women, children and men nonessential to conduct operations have been withdrawn from potential "danger spots" in Batavia's rich oil fields, it was disclosed today, because of preparations to blow up wells, refineries and other works in case of attack.

With the crisis mounting in the troubled Asiatic situation, Batavia's army chief of staff informed the Volksraad (legislature) today that the government will not hesitate to destroy harbor works, oil fields and stocks in an emergency.

Even if the fully strengthened local garrison should be unable to retard invading forces, it was said, preparations now have been completed to destroy the equipment by a new secret system within a few minutes.

Other Nations Will Turn on Him After British Strike, He Says.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Anthony Eden, the British war secretary, promised solemnly tonight that Britain will yet strike Germany a death blow and that when she does, the nations defeated by Hitler will turn upon him "like ghosts arising from the dead."

In a broadcast, he asked: "When the time comes for us to strike, where will Hitler's Fifth Column be? Where will he find friends in Poland, Czechoslovakia, Norway, Denmark, Holland, Belgium, France, Austria?"

"Like ghosts arising from the dead, with their arms and their hands, the nations that he has ravished for a season will turn upon him. Then we shall not be alone."

The real war for Britain, Eden said, will begin only "when we take the offensive and strike home at the enemy."

"That is the way wars are won and that is the way we mean to do," Eden promised.

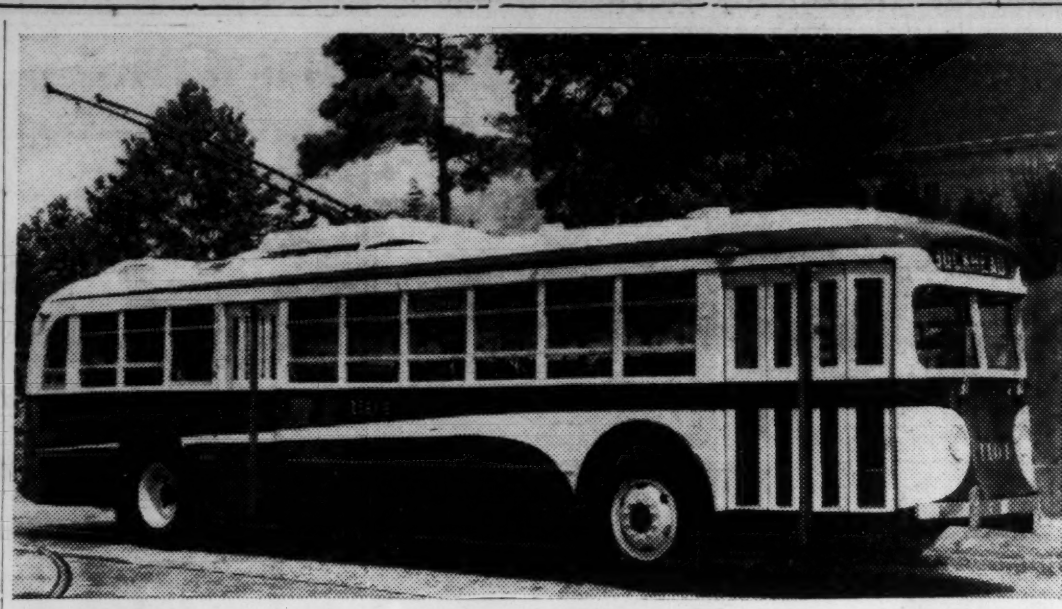

"There must be no war weariness or peace weariness this time," he added. "There must be no third war in our time or in our children's time."

The war secretary said the "second phase of the battle of Britain" appears to be opening. "Now one day soon it may be the turn of the army at home."

Eden urged his listeners, whenever they opened an atlas, not to open it at a map of Europe, but at a map of the world.

"The map of Europe is misleading because it doesn't tell the whole truth," he said. "It merely tells a flattering tale to Germany. All that can be seen of British effort is comprised within two islands looking rather small and inconspicuous."

MINISTER IN MEXICO.
CORDELE, Ga., Aug. 14.—The Rev. Andrew Caraker, pastor of the First Baptist church here, is spending a month's vacation in Mexico.

BUCKHEAD GETS TRACKLESS TROLLEYS—Twenty-eight trackless trolleys like this one—each seating 40 passengers—will be put into operation Sunday, August 25, on the West Peachtree-Buckhead and West Peachtree-Oglethorpe lines, replacing streetcars. The change cost more than $500,000.

Homer Adkins Is Nominated In Arkansas

30,000-Vote Margin Is Piled Up in Democratic Primary.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Long a potent behind-the-scenes figure in Arkansas politics, Homer M. Adkins, 49, stepped into the limelight today as the Democratic nominee for governor by a more than 30,000-vote margin over three opponents, including Governor Carl E. Bailey.

With little more than a hundred scattered precincts unreported from Tuesday's preferential primary, Adkins had 136,731 votes; Bailey, 106,571; Frank Witte, of Magnolia, 907; and J. Rosser Venable, of Little Rock, 594.

Bailey, accepting rejection of his bid for a third term after a decade in high state offices, announced he would retire to private law practice at the conclusion of his term in January.

Adkins resigned his job as internal revenue collector for Arkansas last May to make the governor's race, and had the active backing of the two Arkansas senators, Hattie W. Caraway and John E. Miller, long his close personal and political friends.

Prosecuting Attorney Oren Harris, of El Dorado, apparently won nomination to congress from the seventh district, defeating Representative Wade Hampton Kitchens, of Magnolia. Unofficial returns from 310 of the district's 311 precincts gave Harris 18,953 votes to 18,069 for Kitchens. The missing precinct was a small rural box.

Kitchens announced in Washington, however, that he would ask an investigation of the voting, charging the absentee ballot law had been violated.

Representative David D. Terry, of the fifth district, won renomination by a smashing majority over two opponents.

Secretary of State C. G. Hall and Land Commissioner Otis Page won renomination for third terms handily, but two other state races were forced into run-offs at the August 27 regular primary. Lieutenant Governor Bob Bailey will be opposed then by Speaker of the House John M. Bransford, while Associate Justice J. Seaborn Holt will be opposed by former Governor J. M. Futrell for a seat on the state supreme court.

THOMAS NOMINATED FOR BORAH'S TERM

BOISE, Idaho, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Republicans nominated Senator John Thomas, who was appointed to succeed the late William E. Borah, to serve the remaining two years of the term, while Glen Taylor, ballad-singing entertainer, today led a three-man race for the Democratic senatorial nomination in the Idaho primary.

Air, Sea Successes Listed by Chinese

HONGKONG, Aug. 14.—(Wednesday)—(AP)—Chinese airmen have downed or destroyed on the ground a total of 848 Japanese planes, costing the lives of 1,148 enemy airmen, and sunk 40 Japanese war vessels in three years, the Chinese air command said today.

Its statement was issued on the third anniversary of the outbreak of Chinese-Japanese hostilities in Shanghai when the Chinese air force made a disastrous appearance. On that occasion 582 persons were killed, including three Americans, and 870 injured when Chinese bombs rained on the International Settlement.

Valdosta Tobacco Plants Employ 1,000 Persons

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.
VALDOSTA, Ga., Aug. 14.—Both Valdosta tobacco regrading and stemming plants are now operating on full time, employing more than 1,000 persons.

All tobacco bought on the Georgia markets by the operators of the two plants here is brought to Valdosta where it is cleaned, stemmed and regraded, after which it is placed in hogheads for shipment, most of it abroad.

Tobacco also is processed in the Valdosta plants for many of the other companies buying on the Georgia markets, and operations continue here long after the market closes.

Willkie Urges Election Law
'Police' Board

Suggests Representation of Both Parties To Insure 'Impartiality.'

COLORADO SPRINGS, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Wendell L. Willkie suggested today the creation of an impartial board to enforce federal election laws.

He told a press conference he was waiting with interest to ascertain whether the Democratic national committee would comply with his suggestion that about $640,000 collected in the sale of campaign book advertising be returned.

He added he would "keep after" the matter until some action was taken. Expressing confidence Attorney General Robert Jackson was "an able lawyer," Willkie added he believed Jackson would "give an opinion and give a right one."

Discussing the creation of a board to see that election laws were enforced, Willkie said that when an administration came to power it often was tempted to prosecute misdeeds of its opponents and ignore those of its supporters.

Members of an election board, he added, should have long-term appointments and should be "strictly impartial." He asserted members of both major parties and other interests should be represented.

Aluminum Plant Planned in South

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 14.—Aug. 14.—(AP)—Officials of Reynolds Metals Company inspected proposed sites here today for a $15,000,000 aluminum plant to be built in north Alabama.

Richard S. Reynolds, president of the Richmond, Va., firm, said he expected the site to be selected within two weeks and construction to get under way immediately afterward.

Production is scheduled to begin early in 1941 with the plant, built through a federal loan having an annual capacity of 10,000 tons and employing 1,500 to 2,000 persons.

Manufacturers' Profits
'Close to 1929' Foreseen

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Government officials estimated today that manufacturers' profits this year would be "close to those of 1929."

A report, circulated for the information of various officials, said that 1940 profits would be higher than those of 1928 and 1937 as a result of war and defense orders.

In the first half of this year, the report said, profits averaged 50 per cent more than in the same period of 1939. It added that prospects were good for large profits during the remainder of the year.

NEW GINNING PLAN.
DAWSON, Ga., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Terrell county ginners have reorganized the system of charges for ginning cotton. Instead of a flat rate per bale, the charge will be 90 cents per 100 pounds, this to cover ginning, bagging and ties for the bales. Ginners think this will induce growers to avoid the extra heavy bales of the past. They also proposed to allow farmers "shrinkage" for cotton seed held in storage.

'Machine' Ties Laid to Willkie By 'Boss Flynn'

'Picked as Candidate of Public Utility Party,'
He Says.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Edward J. Flynn, often called "Boss Flynn" by Wendell L. Willkie in the Republican presidential nominee's attacks on Democratic machines, asserted today that "Straw Boss" Willkie "has been a machine politician all his adult life."

In a formal statement, Flynn, chairman-elect of the Democratic national committee, asked if Willkie would denounce Republican party bosses as he had Democratic and if, in view of his comments on the Democratic campaign book, he would suggest paying back "the modest $50,000 that the Republican campaign book of 1936 received for advertising."

Flynn will touch off the national radio campaign on Monday with an "address to Democratic workers" over a CBS network from 7 to 7:15 p. m. (Atlanta time).

After recalling that Willkie "is now sending District Attorney Tom Dewey out to point to the iniquities" of Democratic party machines, Flynn said in his statement:

"It is interesting to note that Mr. Willkie is pretty much of a machine politician himself, having been picked as the candidate of the public utility party. He was a Tammany county committeeman in New York, he was associated with the state central committee in Ohio, he was affiliated with the Summit county organization in that same state. He was a spellbinder for the organization in Elwood and he was a lobbyist in Washington, as well as in various states in which he lived."

"Mr. Willkie has been a machine politician all his adult life, even though he did not attain to high leadership at any stage of his career before he was nominated and assumed the leadership of the party with which he is now affiliated."

4-H SHORT COURSE.
SAVANNAH, Ga., Aug. 14.—(AP)—The fourteenth annual state short course for Negro 4-H club boys and girls is being held at Georgia State College. Approximately 500 club members, representing all parts of the state, and nearly all Negro farm and home demonstration agents are engaged in the sessions. The course began August 11 and concludes Aug. 17.

2 More Lines Of Trackless Cars To Open

Electric Buses Will Serve Buckhead, Oglethorpe Sections.

Trackless trolley service, superceding the long familiar street cars, will be put into effect Sunday morning, August 25, on the West Peachtree-Buckhead and West Peachtree-Oglethorpe lines.

This was announced yesterday by officials of the Georgia Power Company, who estimated the cost at more than $500,000 and said running time would be lessened by from six to eight minutes.

It was emphasized that between 6 a. m. and 9:30 p. m. on week days the trackless trolleys will operate express from Peachtree Circle and Peachtree road to town. They will not pick up passengers on inbound streets after leaving Peachtree Circle nor discharge passengers on outbound trips before reaching Peachtree Circle.

To Relieve Congestion.
However, it was made clear, on Sundays and holidays and in the early morning and late evening the new trolleys will handle all of the transportation from Oglethorpe to the city.

A program will be given at Buckhead on the evening preceding inauguration of the new service, and this will be followed by a parade of the trolleys between Oglethorpe and the city. The public will be invited to ride them free.

Statement Issued.
About $1,500,000 has been invested in improving the service, a statement issued by the company said.

Other salient descriptions of the changes follow:
"Trackless trolleys and motor buses will follow the present street car routing with these exceptions: At Oglethorpe they will turn back just beyond the gates of the university. At Buckhead they will loop by way of Peachtree, East Pace's Ferry, Bolling Way and Peachtree. In town they will loop by way of Forsyth, Walton and Broad streets, reversing the present direction. Outbound trolleys and buses should be boarded at Broad or Walton or any point north of Walton on Broad or Peachtree."

"Trackless trolleys will operate on two-and-a-half-minute headways between Buckhead and town during rush hours. They will operate on 10-minute headways during base hours. From Oglethorpe to town they will operate on 10-minute headways during rush hours and 20-minute headways during base hours."

Time Reduced.
Gasoline buses on West Peachtree will operate on six-and-a-half-minute headways during rush hours and on 13-minute headways during non-rush hours.

"The scheduled running time between Buckhead and town will be 27 minutes during rush hours and 25 minutes during base hours. This is six minutes faster than the present street car schedules. Between Oglethorpe and Atlanta the running time will be cut from 48 to 39 minutes during rush hours and from 44 to 36 minutes during base hours."

"A feeder bus will operate from the Oglethorpe terminus to Chamblee during morning and evening rush hours."

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.
CAMP SHELBY, Miss., Aug. 14. Corporal W. H. McCranie, of Headquarters Company, 121st Infantry, narrowly escaped "injury" here today when a homemade bomb—one pound of flour in a paper sack—fell two feet from where he was sleeping.

Aside from shock, the corporal suffered no ill effects. Entertainment for the boys—after working hours—is provided by the comedy team of Ace Parker, Jack Crutch and Ben Etheridge, and the wrestling team of Corporals Homer Scarborough and Frank Minor.

MEDICAL DETACHMENT WORKS UNDER FIRE

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.
CAMP SHELBY, Miss., Aug. 14. The medical detachment of the 179th Field Artillery got its first "under fire" work Tuesday and yesterday.

Two details of eight men under the command of Sergeant Charles Spratt went on the Howitzer range with the three battalions in the regiment and set up medical stations to take care of injuries which were few and of a minor nature. The hardest job which faces the medics is getting ready for 6 o'clock mess. The mornings are spent in operating the camp dispensary and caring for the sick, lame and lazy. The afternoons, for the most part, are taken up with personal chores, such as washing clothes in the river near camp. Nights are spent in "bull sessions."

Privates G. T. Cullens, G. F. McDonald and E. L. Hester went fishing but came back only with one turtle and plenty of mosquitoes. Company officers are Captains Hugh G. Mosley, Edgar Boling and James L. Campbell Jr., First Lieutenant John T. Mauldin, First Lieutenant William E. Barfield, medical officer, and Captain Emile C. Eliem, dental officer.

HEADQUARTERS COMPANY PREPARES TO MOVE

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.
CAMP SHELBY, Miss., Aug. 14. Headquarters Company, Thirtieth Division, moved today into Louisiana for maneuvers in the Sabine river valley.

The breaking of camp was a long, tedious job and most of the boys worked until after dark taking down tents and getting them ready for the 350-mile trip. Alexandria, La., will be the next stop for the company.

NEEDS THOMAS' HELP

YOUR hair-growing structure is delicate and reacts unfavorably to over exposure of hot rays of the mid-day summer sun. Such exposure may increase your hair-fall, aggravate dandruff, and hasten your scalp along the road to baldness.

Call at a Thomas office today for free advice on the care of your hair during the summer months. A Thomas expert will gladly tell you how to enjoy summer sports without injury to your hair. He will tell you when and how to expose your hair to the sun; when to wear a hat; what to do about excessive perspiration on the scalp—about salt-water bathing and shower baths. He will also explain exactly how Thomas effectively ends dandruff, stops falling hair and re-grows hair on the thin and bald spots. No charge is made for consultation nor for scalp examination. You are always welcome.

The Army IN GEORGIA

Brigadier General Asa L. Singleton, native Georgian and commandant of the Infantry School at Fort Benning since 1936, will retire August 31, Fourth Corps Area headquarters announced yesterday.

Born in Taylor county August 31, 1876, he enlisted in the regular army as a private in 1899. Since then he has seen service in the Philippines, Cuba, Alaska, France and at army posts in the continental United States.

He was promoted to first lieutenant in 1905, to captain in 1916, to major (temporary) in 1917, to lieutenant colonel and colonel (temporary) in 1918. He reverted to his permanent rank of captain on June 30, 1920, and was promoted to the grade of major, regular army, the next day. He was made a lieutenant colonel in 1917, colonel in 1932, and brigadier general in 1936.

As chief of staff of the 41st Division during the World War he was in both the Aisne-Marne and Champagne-Marne offensives. General Singleton has also served as chief of staff, Eighth Division, and as commander and staff chief of Base Section 0.5 in France.

After holding several executive positions in the War Department in Washington, he assumed command of the 29th Infantry at Fort Benning in March, 1935, in which capacity he served until October, 1936, when he was named to his present post.

A holder of the Distinguished Service Medal, General Singleton has also been awarded the French Order of the Black Star.

C.; and at Fort Benning, Ga.; 29th Field Artillery; cavalry, engineer corps, quartermaster corps, ordnance department; infantry, second armored division, including 68th Armored Regiment; infantry, 67th Armored Regiment and band and 41st Infantry, armored.

Dies Confirms Speaking Date At Auditorium

Congressman Will Appear on Americanism Day Program.

Wellborn Ellis, chairman of the Atlanta Americanism Day committee, making arrangements for the appearance of Congressman Martin Dies at the city auditorium on August 30, yesterday issued the following statement:

"We have just received a personal confirmation from Congressman Dies of his long desire to bring his message to the people of Atlanta and surrounding territories. He is happy to know of the enthusiasm and co-operation of the different groups and organizations in making this occasion a success. The people in this section are indeed fortunate in that this is one of the few cities in the United States where Congressman Dies has agreed to appear.

The committee in charge of arrangements desire to stress that this meeting will be open to the public without charge and that we desire the co-operation of every organization that believes in the principles of democracy. In addition to individuals representing organizations and groups previously listed, many are constantly indicating their willingness and desire to co-operate with the committee.

"An attempt will be made, either personally or through the mail, to contact every organization in this section, to urge them to adopt resolutions expressing gratitude to Congressman Dies for his willingness to appear and pledging their support in making Americanism Day in Atlanta a success. We plan to present these resolutions to Congressman Dies as a memento of this occasion.

"We believe Congressman Dies' message will prove the spark whereby this section of the country catch by its united front demonstrate that this is barren ground for the seed of betrayal sown by Fifth Columnists and un-Americans."

British Armed Cruiser Sunk; 30 Men Die

300 in Crew and a Cat Rescued From Transylvania.

LONDON, Aug. 15.—(Thursday)—(P)—The 16,923-ton armed merchant cruiser Transylvania—once a popular West Indies cruise ship running out of New York—has been torpedoed and sunk by a German submarine somewhere in the Atlantic.

The sinking was disclosed in a brief admiralty communique.

Between 30 and 40 sailors were believed lost due to lifeboats capsizing in choppy seas. More than 300 officers and men were saved and landed at a west coast port.

Most of the rescue work was done by ships that picked up distress signals and dashed to the stricken liner. The liner kept afloat almost four hours.

The commander of the ship, Captain F. N. Miles, was among those saved. Many had remarkable escapes. The ship's cat also was brought ashore.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 47 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Roberts Sued In Operation of Market Here

Claims Total $150,572; Superior Court Hearing Set for August 30.

Claims totaling $150,572 against Columbus Roberts personally and as commissioner of agriculture are contained in a suit filed yesterday in Fulton superior court in connection with the operation of the state farmers' market on Gilmer street.

The suit, brought by J. W. Barwick, is a combined complaint and request for a receivership. Judge A. L. (Jack) Etheridge set a hearing for August 30.

Star Peck, attorney for Barwick, said the suit was not political and that negotiations over Barwick's claims had been in process for more than a year.

The Draper-Owens Realty Company and owners of the property covered by the state market were made defendants in the suit also.

Barwick asserts he obtained five-year leases on the property and turned them over to Tom Linder, who was then commissioner of agriculture. He charged that Roberts, through the realty company, executed new leases at higher rentals.

He asks for $50,000 from Roberts for use of the property since January 1, 1937, and for $52,572 as compensation for the lessees he claims were taken away from him by the new leases, and that $30,000 be given him as the reasonable value of his improvements to the property. He also requests that the Roberts leases be declared void, that the commissioner of agriculture be enjoined from paying rent higher than stipulated in the Barwick leases, and that a receiver be appointed to collect all rentals.

Barwick charged Roberts operates a cafe and barber shop on the market without authority and he petitioned the court to enjoin the use of the market for this purpose.

Bomb Mixup Baby Awarded Dutch Mother

Woman Who Now Has Boy Refuses To Give Him Up.

THE HAGUE, Aug. 14.—(AP)—The case of a baby boy claimed by two mothers after an air bombing of a maternity home in the Nazi conquest of the Netherlands May 10 was decided by a Hague court today.

The court ruled that the woman who now has the baby must give it up. She cried out that she "never, never" would yield. The other woman, plaintiff in the case, said that her baby was 10 days old when the maternity home was bombed and that she took the child to a window and handed him to a pedestrian, who ran with the infant to an air-raid shelter. There, according to the plaintiff, the other woman took the child.

The court heard evidence that two babies were killed in the defendant's room at the maternity home, but none in the room of the plaintiff. Blood tests and fingerprint tests were made on the surviving child, but these were not decisive.

The woman who sued for the baby was not in court, but both husbands were there. The winning father broke away from the congratulations of friends and dashed home to tell his wife of the decision while the other mother wept.

Orders Issued In State's War On Mad Foxes

90-Day Quarantine Will Go Into Effect in Burke County.

State Veterinarian J. M. Sutton yesterday clamped a quarantine for rabies control on Burke county, prohibiting dogs from running at large for 90 days after August 20 unless they have been immunized 30 days before the quarantine deadline.

(The action followed widespread reports of rabid foxes in Burke and surrounding counties.)

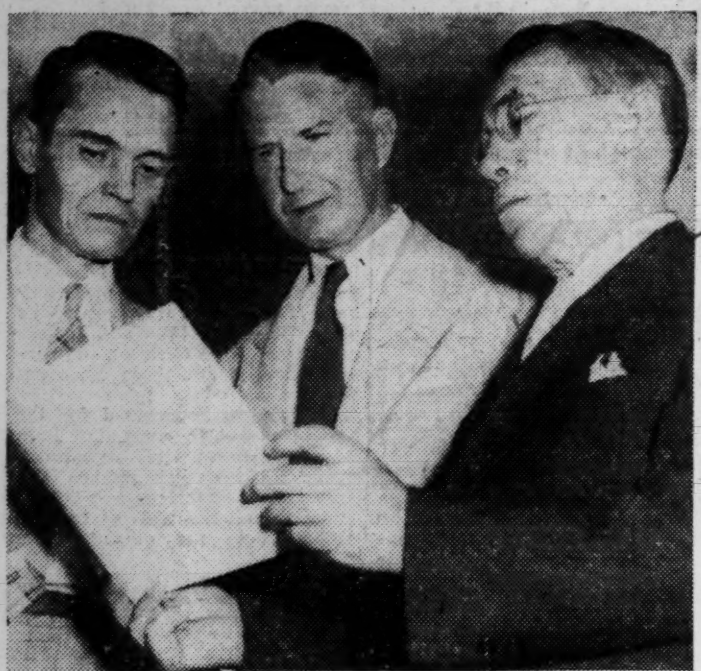

Investigations of rabies outbreaks among dogs and foxes, such as has appeared in Burke county, are being conducted in Jefferson and Jenkins counties.

The quarantine order makes it illegal for any animal bitten by a rabid dog to run at large during the specified period.

Persons over 15 will be permitted to take their dogs on the public streets if they use a restraining leash not over five feet long.

The State Health Department has found many cases of rabies in examination of heads of dogs and foxes killed in Burke county, and humans have been bitten by rabid foxes.

As a precaution against attack, he advised "get out of the animal's path and stand perfectly still, because a rabid animal is likely to attack anything he sees moving."

Theaters Offer A Wide Choice On New Bills

Epics of Alaska, Old West; Melodrama, Comedy Are Included.

By LEE FUHRMAN.

Acting Motion Picture Editor. Epics of the snow country and the old west, mystery melodrama and rollicking comedy hold the screens of Atlanta theaters this week.

"I Love You Again," starring Bill Powell and Myrna Loy, is being held over for another week at Loew's, due to the great hit this show has made with the public; "When the Daltons Rode," an action-thriller directed by the man who directed the highly successful "Destry Rides Again," comes into the Fox tomorrow, and "The Girl From God's Country," with Chester Morris and Jane Wyatt, opens tomorrow at the Rialto. Also being held over is "Pride and Prejudice," at the Rhodes.

Jeffery Lynn and Brenda Marshall in a mystery with a new twist move into the Paramount tomorrow with the opening of "Money and the Woman." The Capitol's current show is "The Saint Takes Over," with "Private Affairs" booked to open Sunday.

Paramount.

Billed as a brand-new kind of movie mystery, "Money and the Woman," starring Jeffery Lynn and Brenda Marshall, opens a week's run tomorrow at the Paramount theater.

Other members of the cast include Charles Bickford, Mala Kato Lawson, John Bleifer, Mamo Clark, Ferike Boros, Don Zelaw, and Ace, the dog. Sidney Salkow directed this opus of the snow country.

Lynn portrays a young bank executive who becomes involved in a plot to loot the bank of $50,000. Implicated in the crime, he solves the case in order to clear his name. In this he is aided by Miss Marshall.

Rialto.

Republic's "Girl From God's Country," opening tomorrow at the Rialto theater, is an exciting adventure in Alaska in which action fans get their money's worth.

Starred are Chester Morris and Jane Wyatt. Supporting players include Charles Bickford, Mala Kato Lawson, John Bleifer, Mamo Clark, Ferike Boros, Don Zelaw, and Ace, the dog. Sidney Salkow directed this opus of the snow country.

The story is said to have many original touches. It deals with the life of a human being in the far reaches of Alaska. The love interest revolves around the nurse who comes to help him.

Fox.

Universal's new frontier action epic, "When the Daltons Rode," with Randolph Scott and Kay Francis in leading roles, comes to the Fox theater tomorrow for a week's engagement.

The Dalton boys, most famous of all the midwestern outlaws, are recreated on the screen by Brian Donlevy, Broderick Crawford, Stuart Erwin, and Frank Albertson, while other important roles are filled by George Bancroft, Andy Devine, Mary Gordon, Harvey Stephens and Quen Ramsey.

Miss Francis plays the first outdoor role of her career, appearing as the winsome telegraph operator in Coffeyville, Kan., in 1892, when the gang was destroyed while staging the only double bank robbery in frontier history.

Capitol.

"The Saint Takes Over," now current at the Capitol, is another melodramatic adventure in the exciting life of Simon Templar, again played suavely by George Sanders, who seems to be cast ideally in the role of the modern Robin Hood.

Furnishing the love interest—and a great deal of the melodrama too—is Wendy Barrie. In the supporting cast are Jonathan Hale, as Inspector Fernac, and Paul Guilfoyle, as a gang muscle man. Guilfoyle does a really outstanding job of a minor part, putting over comedy touches with skill.

The tale tells of the Saint's exploits in rounding up a gang of crooks who have framed his friend, the Inspector. All ends happily.

WORLD PREMIERE—Ginger Rogers and Ronald Colman are teamed in RKO-Radio's "Lucky Partners," which will have its world premiere at the Fox theater midnight show Saturday. The film is based on an original story by the French playwright, Sacha Guitry. Supporting cast includes Billy Gilbert and Spring Byington.

happily, although poor Miss Barrie has to be disposed of in a rather cruel way. Newsreel, a musical short, and a really interesting short on pet otters complete the program.—L. F.

Loew's.

Those mad-cap marrieds of the screen, William Powell and Myrna Loy, continue their capers in "I Love You Again," which is being held over at Loew's for another week.

Also in the cast of this comedy, one of the funniest out of Hollywood in many months, are Frank McHugh, who plays Powell's partner, and Edmund Lowe, seen in a heavy role. The casting throughout is excellent.

Directed by the boxoffice-clicking Woody Van Dyke, the comedy romps from one funny situation to another as Powell, a victim of amnesia, struggles to catch up with a nine-year-old mental fog. Short subjects are also on the bill.

Rhodes.

Also on the holdover list is "Pride and Prejudice," starring Greer Garson and Laurence Olivier, which remains for another week at the Rhodes theater.

The film is a charming picture of the famous Jane Austen classic. In the splendid supporting cast are such players as Mary Boland, Ann Rutherford, Melville Cooper, Heather Angel, Karen Morley and Edna Mae Oliver.

The story deals with the five Bennett sisters and their various romances, high-lighted by Olivier's wooing of the beautiful Miss Garson.

Cameo.

A battle to hold a valuable mail contract for a stage line in Arizona forms the basis of "Stage to China," RKO Radio's latest George O'Brien film, opening at the Cameo theater tomorrow and continuing through Saturday.

O'Brien temporarily abandons his cowboy and sheriff characterizations to portray the role of a postal inspector who takes a job driving a stage in order to investigate mysterious irregularities in the operation of the line.

Others in the cast are Virginia Vale, Hobart Cavanaugh, Glenn Strange and William Haade.

German Refugee Will Divorce Wife

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Julius Maier, who fled Germany because he found conditions there "intolerable," asked a divorce from his wife today because she would not leave.

He said both his wife and their 11-year-old son were endangered by the situation in Germany, but Mrs. Maier refused to join him in this country even though he had arranged funds and transportation.

Maier's petition said he left Germany in April, 1939, and went first to London, England.

HEAVY ENROLLMENT.

DALTON, Ga., Aug. 14.—A record enrollment at Valley Point school, Georgia's largest rural school, located near Dalton, is reported by Superintendent I. V. Chandler with 867 students registered for classes. Of this number, 179 are taking high school work and 688 are enrolled in the grammar grades. The total enrollment at the end of last year was 965, and Superintendent Chandler states that he expects to pass this mark for the 1940-41 term, many students not yet having registered for class work.

Kitchen Full of Filthy ROACHES

Here's how to get rid of them. First, keep the floor under the sink, refrigerator, stove, etc. free from dampness and food particles. Second, sprinkle Bee Brand Insect Powder in all corners, back of and under the sink, refrigerator, stove, etc., and around openings where pipes go through floor, back of and under wall boards. Third, sprinkle Bee Brand Powder in the grates, where roaches travel. Repeat these directions at weekly intervals. Bee Brand Insect Powder kills roaches, ants and other crawling insects quick—yet it's entirely safe to use. Insist on the genuine Bee Brand Insect Powder. Its sale with a guarantee of satisfaction or your money back. Buy a can today.

Girl's Toe Used To Make Her A New Finger

Surgical Feat on Baby, 2, Shows Up Well Under X-Ray.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—(AP)—The successful "creation" of a new finger for a two-year-old girl from one of her toes—a surgical feat performed so skillfully as to make detection difficult—was described today in the August issue of Annals of Surgery.

The transplanting was done by Dr. Vilyar P. Blair and Dr. Louis T. Byars, of St. Louis, who grafted the toe to replace the first joint of the middle finger of the girl's right hand.

So successful was the operation, the article said, that six weeks later X-ray pictures showed that color and circulation apparently were satisfactory.

Although the joint remains straight now, the girl already has developed noticeable voluntary flexion and extension of the new member, and eventually, the surgeons hoped, normal movement of the finger would be reached.

Citizen Donates Dollar, Slogan for U. S. Defense

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Under the constitution, the house ways and means committee originates all the federal money-raising legislation—tariffs, taxes and the like—but the committee rarely sees the money.

Today a citizen sent in a dollar and with it a national defense slogan.

"A dollar given today helps keep the invader away," wrote Roy E. Craner, of Flicksville, Pa. Chairman Doughton, Democrat, North Carolina, said he was sending the money back with instructions as to how the man could donate it to the Treasury, if he still wanted to.

The 6-year-old girls will wear white silk dresses and white veils.

Bishop Leo Nelligan, of Pembroke, assisted by the Rev. V. E. Pilon, parish priest at Corbeil, is to administer the sacrament in an improvised chapel in the nursery dining room.

Mr. and Mrs. Olivia Dionne and the brothers and sisters of the quint are present.

Sea Gulls Visit Rome, Tallapoosa and Winder

ROME, Ga., Aug. 14.—The storm-buffed sea gulls which fell exhausted in a Macon street were mere weaklings, it developed today, when many of the sea birds, driven 250 miles inland, were observed trying their luck on the muddy waters of rivers and creeks around Rome.

Several gulls were reported to have fallen exhausted in Tallapoosa, in Haralson county south of here, and at Winder, in Barrow county, to the east.

DeKalb Police Arrest
183 Persons in July
DeKalb county police made 183 arrests during the month of July, of which 149 were for traffic violations, Chief J. T. Dailey said yesterday in his regular report.

Others included nine arrests for burglary and seven for larceny. The department recovered five stolen automobiles, confiscated six automobiles for transporting non-tax paid whisky, destroyed 570 gallons of illegal whisky and recovered $1,505 worth of stolen property.

Wagner's Bill Would Expand Social Benefits

Amendment to Security Act Covers 10,000,000 More Workers.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—(AP) Senator Wagner, Democrat, New York, introduced in the senate today legislation to amend the Social Security Act to extend old-age insurance benefits to about 10,000,000 workers, chiefly in agricultural pursuits, not covered by the act.

He proposed, in addition, that unemployment compensation benefits be extended to employees of firms hiring fewer than eight persons (who are now excluded from such compensation payments), as well as non-civil service government workers and employees of charitable institutions. Farm workers would not be covered in this bracket.

Wagner's bill also would substitute a system of variable grants to the states for present flat-rate payments. This, he said, would permit some poorer states to raise their non-contributory old-age assistance payments to a level comparable to that of more wealthy states.

He proposed to include in the contributory old-age insurance system all agriculture and domestic workers, employees of state and local governments, non-civil service employees of the federal government, and employees of non-profit, religious, charitable and educational institutions, except ordained ministers.

Wagner told the senate that the proposed changes would "eliminate the inequities which now arise because workers frequently lose their insurance when they shift from covered to uncovered employment."

Construction on Atlanta's new $550,000 incinerator will begin about September 1, H. J. Cates, chief of the city sanitary department, said yesterday as he returned from two weeks' vacation in Florida.

Carl T. Sutherland, city personnel director, yesterday was sniffing and sneezing because of hay fever. He plans to take a vacation into the mountains, which he said has been a specific for his malady in previous years.

City park shrubbery suffered considerable damage from recent heavy rains, George I. Simons, general manager of parks, said yesterday. He specifically reported huge hydrangea blooms broken in Grant park.

Mayor Hartsfield will deliver an address in behalf of his candidacy for renomination in the September 4 city primary beginning at 8 o'clock tonight at the Bessie Branham park, second ward.

State Highway Engineer W. R. Neel announced yesterday the addition of 190 miles of federal highway to the state system. The new link extends U. S. Route 129 from Macon to the Florida state line. Selection of the route, which takes in State Highways Nos. 87, 26 and 1, was made by the American Association of State Highway Officials.

Visitors at the executive offices yesterday included Representative Cliff Kennedy, of Glenville; Jerome Clements, of Morgan, a former state senator and representative-elect; B. I. Bostwick, of Arlington, and J. J. Brown, of Alma.

Manning Yeomans, state entomologist, said yesterday Georgia's campaign against the dreaded Japanese beetle has been far more effective than that in North Carolina, where this year 17,000 of the pests were found in the Asheville area—an increase of several thousand over last week. He reported that no beetles have been found in traps in this state during the past two weeks.

at the CITY HALL

George I. Simons, general manager of city parks, yesterday prepared to submit to the next regular meeting of the parks committee a petition from the Third Ward Improvement Club asking 10 major improvements for Maddox park, including a bathhouse, sought by third ward representatives for the past several years. Simons said plans are being perfected for the new building, but lack of funds may preclude its construction before next summer.

John Carver Brogan and T. A. Kemp Jr. signed the club's petition as members of a special parks committee.

What Have They Done to Us?

Of all the evils that Germany has perpetrated upon the allegedly civilized world, perhaps the worst is that they have made normally kind and sympathetic human beings into callous observers of cruelty and death inflicted upon the innocent.

We in America, far removed, for the time being at least, from the actual scenes of conflict, have, many of us, reached a stage of insensitivity where we come close to rejoicing when we read of the slaughter of women and children—if those women and children are of a particular nationality.

We have read in the news reports this week, how British bombing squadrons have smashed 214 towns in northern Germany and we know there must have been many civilian casualties as an avoidable accompaniment to the destruction of important military objectives.

We read, only yesterday, how British planes bombed four or five great industrial cities in Italy, killing 22 and wounding 52 or more.

And we give silent cheers for those British bombers and hope, deep in our hearts, that they will repeat the air assaults, that they will send more devastating attacks against Germans and Italians alike. We feel that nothing could be more pleasing than an authenticated report that Berlin had been widely, extensively and destructively bombed.

It is the Germans and the Italians themselves who have done this to us, who have gradually hardened our hearts against them.

For we remember, as we read of death descending from the German skies, all the horrors of the Nazi campaigns against the German Jews. We remember the women and children who, helpless and innocent, were bombed to quivering pulp in Warsaw. We remember that most awful crime of modern history when Rotterdam, an unarmed and unprotected city, was subjected to such an assault from German planes that 30,000 civilians died, 70,000 were wounded, in seven and a half minutes. This, too, after Holland had capitulated.

We remember the bombs that are, day and night, raining down upon England, carrying their messages of death to helpless Britons.

We recall that, in that earlier war brought upon the world by Germany, the first World War, that the fighting was none of it on German soil and we are glad that, at last, the German people are experiencing some of the agony that they have permitted their rulers and leaders to inflict on other nations.

We remember when Italian airmen boasted of the "thrill" they experienced when they dropped bombs upon, and poured machine gun bullets into, the wretched, unarmed warriors of Ethiopia. We picture to our selves again that wanton brutality of German airmen spraying machine guns at the throngs of women, children and old men who packed the roads of northern France, seeking refuge somewhere, anywhere, after the tanks and shells and bombs had blasted their homes to ruin.

We remember all these things and we are, literally, glad when we read of death and injury and fire and destruction rained upon German and Italian cities and their people.

It is a terrible thing, this that the Germans and the Italians and the Russians and the Japanese have done to us. They have pushed even us back towards the age of savagery.

But they have done it themselves, none other is to blame. And so, until the German and the Italian people, quivering under the impact of war around and upon their own homes, awake to their own responsibility, renounce and repudiate their leaders and humbly sue for restoration into the family of civilized nations, we shall continue to say, every time we read of a British bomb that found its target, "That's good. Give 'em some more!"

A trade item lists the United States as again the world's largest "consumer" of mouth organs. And we'd been mistaking those sounds for asthma.

Undeniable Need

There is no room for argument, among those who have seen the present conditions in some Atlanta schools, at Grady hospital, etc., as to the very real need of the improvements contemplated under the city bond issue of $4,000,000 which will come before the voters for approval at the September 4 primary.

There are Atlanta schools which, for years, have been housed in the flimsiest of temporary (supposedly) portable wooden buildings. Children in those schools have been exposed, for every minute of their school life, to a serious fire hazard, while innumerable other hazards have dogged their feet every time they walk along hallways, to and from classrooms or to lunch.

The need of additional facilities at Grady is equally well known. The city has grown since last Grady resources were enlarged. There are more people who have the legal right to expect hospitalization or clinic services at the city hospital. Enlargements and improvements are a very real need at Grady.

The condition at Battle Hill sanatorium are comparable to those at Grady. In fact, every institution or department in the city which will receive some of the benefit from the bond issue, has been in serious need of the contemplated improvements for years. There is no possibility of logical denial of any one of the needs to be provided.

The only problem facing leaders of the campaign for passage of the $4,000,000 issue, is that of getting enough voters out on September 4 to make the bond approval legal. Under Georgia law, the total voting for a bond issue must be a majority of the registered voters. Thus, even though bonds win overwhelming majority approval, the issue will not be formally authorized unless almost 20,000 votes are cast in the affirmative.

There isn't too much time between now and September 4 but, in what time there is, it should be the objective of the campaign workers to see that every voter in the county, man or woman, understands thoroughly the importance of voting for bonds this year.

We feel much better. Pencil figures, found late yesterday on a local hotel tablecloth, show it is child's play to build 50,000 fighting planes.

Money in Piccolyte

A new source of income for the turpentine producers of south Georgia is indicated in the announcement of a new synthetic resin, developed from a gum turpentine base by research laboratories in Ohio.

The new product is called "piccolyte" and is expected to increase sales of gum spirits by several million gallons a year.

Thomas Gamble, best known as mayor of Savannah, is also editor of the Weekly Naval Stores Review and thoroughly conversant with the turpentine industry.

He points out that the new chemical, already in commercial production, can be used successfully in numerous fields—for paint and varnish, printing inks, paper coatings, linoleum manufacture—and scores of others.

The chemical engineer, given well equipped laboratories and time, can find new uses for many raw materials which have long gone to waste. Ford's chemists learned to use soy beans for painting automobiles. DuPont's scientists have developed hundreds of new uses for neglected products.

This is an age of science—and the chemist is taking his place at the forefront of scientists.

GREEN LIGHT IN ASIA

(From The Cleveland Plain Dealer.)

British troops are being withdrawn from China "for service elsewhere," says the official announcement, but this tells only half the story. The 1,500 British soldiers at Shanghai, Tientsin and Peiping are leaving their posts at the request of the Japanese and because London has abandoned the effort to maintain a pretense.

Foreign troops have remained at their stations in China, ostensibly to defend the interests of their nationals. Since the start of Japan's invasion they have been unable to do so. The Japanese have thwarted foreign interests at every turn on one pretext or another or without any excuse. They have made no secret of the fact that their purpose is to drive out the British, Americans and French and run East Asia for themselves.

It was only to keep the record straight that Britain and the United States kept their troops on hand. Thereby they attempted to show that they intended to uphold the concession treaties with China; that the Japanese could not have everything their own way. Now Britain abandons the effort.

This places the United States in a tight position. She alone of the great powers sticks by the China treaties. Now the anti-British agitation in Japan may become anti-American agitation. The British retreat will be interpreted as a victory in Tokyo, as a green light to go forward with the program of ousting all foreigners. The Japanese, henceforth, can be expected to push more vigorously their plans for a "new order" in East Asia.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

THE PUBLISHER'S TALE WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—By now it is an open secret that the "villain" of the President's acceptance speech—the man who refused to be drafted into the government service for national defense—was neither Alf M. Landon nor Henry Ford. No offer of a place in the government was made to Landon or Ford. Before long, it is expected, the President will reveal the name he chose to suppress at Chicago.

The revelation ought to have unusual interest, for it is reported on high authority that the individual in question is a publisher—a leading member of the group more resented by the President than any other group in American life.

The publisher was called down to the White House, so the story goes, when the idea was born of including an elaborate system of hemispheric co-operation in the general framework of the defense program. He sells an important news service to South America, and in the course of building up his news service has acquired an unusual knowledge of the ins and outs of South American politics and the chief South American political and business personalities. Reminding him of his special equipment, the President asked him to leave his business for a few months and to undertake a detailed survey of the South American situation on behalf of the defense program.

The publisher objected that pressure of work made it impossible for him to take so much time away from his office. The President replied that, in the present emergency, any man whose services were required by the government ought to have all other interests in second place. The publisher consented to think the matter over, but after a day or so wrote the President a letter explaining that, because of the numerous other calls on him, he could not grant the President's request. Although he had already suggested one of his subordinates as a substitute, asserting that the proposed subordinate would do a better job than he could, the President let the matter drop for the time being.

THE PRESIDENT AND THE PRESS The story of the publisher is being repeated by high officials of the administration close to the President. The fact that the publisher is known as a close adviser of Wendell L. Willkie naturally does not tend to soften the comments on the incident in administration circles. The publisher, who is understood to be out of the country, has not yet given his version of the incident, which may be quite different from the administration's.

The sudden revival of the incident, and the widespread anticipation that the President will soon make some mention of it himself, are chiefly significant as straws in the wind. Along with several other straws, they point in the general direction of a grand presidential assault on the press.

The President's extreme bitterness toward the press is a pretty open secret. He began to feel that the press was unfair to him shortly after the New Deal honeymoon ended. His feeling was greatly intensified by the 1936 campaign, when a huge proportion of the press opposed him. It was further strengthened by the court fight. And now, with over 90 per cent of the newspapers and virtually all the magazines in the country working against his re-election, this feeling of the President's is, quite understandably, more violent than ever. Anyone who follows his public utterances will remember that few of his recent pertinent statements have contained some sort of direct or indirect attack on the newspaper business. Thus the time for a full dress presidential attack is obviously ripe.

EXPLOSION IN CABINET So far as known, the actual project of such an attack has not yet been discussed by the President. At a recent cabinet meeting, however, he gave a number of the something big was in the wind. Much of the meeting was devoted to a presidential denunciation of the press' behavior, with illustrations tending to prove that newspapers and magazines had joined to suppress material favorable to the administration, and to give special prominence to damaging news and articles.

Obviously, the President must be itching to tell the country what he thinks about the press in the clearest possible terms. Nor is this the first time that he has been in such a belligerent mood. Rather detailed plans were made a year or so ago for a stern dressing-down of publishers and their business. The plans were a response to the press treatment of the purge campaigns in the spring and summer of 1938. At that time "something has got to be done to the newspapers," was the slogan of the New Dealers who were managing the purge. If such plans were considered once before, it seems not unlikely that they may be revived now, when the provocation is considered infinitely greater.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

Life Begins

At 58.

There is some sort of a moral in the story of Mrs. Lucy DuBose Sims Dobbs, as it was told in the news columns of yesterday.

Mrs. Dobbs is 58. An age when lots of folks are considering the active, ambitious part of life as over. They display a contented, devoted retirement and an "old age" devoted to quiet pleasures and the contemplation, with frequent amused smiles, of the antics of the young folks.

But not Mrs. Dobbs. On Tuesday of this week she was admitted to the bar, in Fulton superior court. Two years ago she graduated from law school and last June was one of 26 out of a group of 114 aspirants to successfully pass her examinations for admission to the bar of the state.

So now she is a full-fledged lawyer. But you needn't think it was just a "stunt," that she is now ready to rest on her laurels, to consider her achievements to date the goal of her ambitions. Not at all. She is going into active practice of her profession. And she expects to make money at it, too.

For, it is stated, she plans to use her earnings as an attorney in learning how to fly an airplane!

There's a life program—starting at 58—for a grandmother!

Former

Ambition.

This woman of such vital ambitions used to want to be an astronomer. When a young woman in Washington, Ga., she was determined to devote her life to the study of the stars. A fascinating and important profession, to be sure.

But later she abandoned the stars as her career and turned to the study of the law. The story says nothing of the years when she must have devoted herself to the task of being a good wife and mother. But there are two fine sons to testify, as living evidence, to her success in this more usual career for womanhood. Now, however, the boys are grown and making good places for themselves in the world. So Grandmother Dobbs maps a career as lawyer and aviator to use her bounding energies.

There is, as I started, a moral in this story. It's an ancient moral and self-evident. It is that the number of your years have mighty little to do with your real age.

Astronomy,

Not Astronomy.

It was interesting in the information that Mrs. Dobbs was, at one time, a student of astronomy. That probably had much to do with the shaping of her career, past, present and future. For no one can learn the marvelous story of the universe beyond our own world, without gaining a tremendous amount of calm intelligence and sound common sense. Even those of us who know little of the suns and the planets, the galaxies and outer space, can gain immeasurable strength for the spirit merely by gazing into the heavens on a clear night and allowing imagination to transport the soul, as from a tiny vantage point, into the immensity of creation.

There are, you know, two widely divergent groups of star students. Or, perhaps I should say, one group of students, the astronomer, and one group of worshipers, the astrologers. The first is a science, one of the grandest and most inspiring of sciences available to man. The second is a superstition, handed down from long dead centuries of ignorance and fanaticism.

It should go without saying that a woman with the intelligence of Mrs. Dobbs was an astronomer, never an astrologer.

Of Course,

They'll Obey.

Oh, yes, I know there are plenty of deluded souls who waste what could be useful minds on all the mumbo jumbo of astrology. There are, too, a people who believe such silliness as horoscopes, that make themselves into circles and roll down mountains. Coach whips snakes that use their tails to whip children and thus send them crazy for life.

There are people who believe the earth is flat and others who believe there is no Creator of all that earth and stars and suns are just an accident, somehow.

But because there are folks who swallow that kind of guff is no reason why I shouldn't express myself on the subject, whether the deluded ones have their feelings hurt or not.

In the Louie Newton manner—Selah.

Twenty-five Years Ago Today.

From the news columns of Sunday, August 15, 1915:

"NOGALES, Ariz., Aug. 14.—Scores of American soldiers were participants in a riot on the streets of Nogales tonight as the result, it is said, of a rumor that Mexicans threatened to take their guns away."

And Fifty.

Years Ago.

From the news columns of Friday, August 15, 1890:

"Happy Bill Young, the only and original, is in the city. Mr. Young is an old Cedar town boy, but is now representing Messrs. McGee & Company, and no knight of the grip is more universally beloved than happy Bill Young."

Slipper Village Busy.

Slipper makers of San Daniele del Friuli, Italy, are busy trying to keep up with the changing styles of sandals worn by women at the seaside. Every worker, man and woman, in the district, makes slippers, 600 being employed in factories and many turn them out at home after the housework is completed. The popular "pappose," or black velvet slipper worn by housewives, are all made there.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

This Is NEW YORK, Aug. 14. A small dispatch from U. S. A. Buffalo tweaks an issue which at present gives no appreciable pain, but which should be examined and doctored in the interests of political hygiene.

In Buffalo the central committee of Polish organizations asked the city council to change the name of a thoroughfare known as Lindbergh drive, recommending that it be named, instead, for Adam Plewacki, the first resident of Buffalo killed in France in the first World War. Obviously, Adam Plewacki was a man of Polish birth or blood, and the suggestion that he be thus honored, coming as it does from a community of organizations which frankly profess to be Polish, is an unpleasant reflection on his loyalty to the United States, being tinged with an insinuation that he was American with reservations.

Would it be in bad taste, do you suppose, to remind this body that this is not Poland but the U. S. A., and that organizations which consider and call themselves Polish, Italian, German or Irish, Czech, Dutch or Norwegian forget their manners in presuming to address suggestions to the American government or any of its subdivisions affecting our own affairs?

Alien No Polish group has any standing here except as an alien group, and we have had some difficulty ere now convincing alien groups that we can attend to the naming of our streets, the election of congressmen, mayors and the like and the general management of the nation and its communities without outside assistance, however well meant.

The fact that American sympathies and detestations at present are generally identical with those of the Polish people does not simplify the case. The point is that when Poles become Americans they are supposed to cease to be Polish and that most such groups as this are maintained less for the stated purpose of preserving their respective cultural treasures and admirable traditions than for the ulterior purpose of voting in bloc and exerting political pressure as unassimilated minorities.

It can be added that in many such cases able but discreditable politicians put themselves forward as spokesmen for the vote of this or that hyphen-American group and, by their sordid misdoing, including monkey business at the polling places and racketeering on public contracts, seriously injure the people for whom they presume to speak.

It may be admitted that some political leaders of such groups are fine citizens, but the fact persists that when they acquire power in American politics as representatives of colonies of foreign-born citizens they tend to set those people apart from the whole community and postpone their assimilation or Americanization.

Result As a result of this very action, many Americans of Italian birth or blood, whose political padrones kept them segregated in American cities, are now in painful embarrassment. For years it was thought possible to be wholly American but to retain a love for Italy, but suddenly Italy is found in partnership with the nation which in its national anthem proclaims a mission to rule the whole world and at present is engaged in a formidable attempt to realize that ambition.

Thus, plainly, Italy is allied with the nation against the United States is now rearing, and the love of Italy comes into conflict with complete devotion to this country. The American-Americans are uneasy about this love.

There is no reason why a group of Americans calling themselves Americans should not propose that Lindbergh drive be renamed Spelvin speedway or Elm street, but no organization of Poles has any such right. Speaking strictly, the Germans of Buffalo would be no further out of line if they should ask the city fathers of Buffalo to name a street for Horst Wessel or Hitler or the Italians should ask similar recognition for the Duce or Italo Balbo.

True, Adam Plewacki must have been an American. Greater proof of his Americanism he could not have given. But this organization, speaking as Poles, represents him as a Pole, which is no compliment to him.

This would be a good time for all such organizations to throw out their stationery, destroy their rubber stamps and, with one last look toward Europe, decide to become American with no reservations.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

DEATH IN THE STREETS My first job with a newspaper was as a police reporter in a sizable city. In many respects, the job of police reporter is one of the most interesting of newspaper jobs. The sights and the smells are stamped on the memory forever. I am quite sure that in old age the smell of certain types of disinfectants will remind me of police stations and the persons in them.

Police reporter sees all sorts of deaths. He sees the dying suicide who has shot himself; the suicide who has taken poison. He sees persons who have been critically wounded in murder attempts. He sees accident victims, men and women; he sees them die all sorts of deaths. He never becomes calloused to the suffering and the awfulness of wounds. He does, in time, come to be something of a philosopher about the mystery of life and death when it comes to others. It is a philosophy which does him no good. But he gets it.

Those who have seen these deaths know that the most pitiful of all is the death of a child. A child struck down by an automobile or truck is the most pitiful. There is the small dress, dirty and rumpled. There is the small face, with the dirt of the street or the wheel upon it.

The drunken driver or the reckless, careless driver who kills a child, becomes, in the eyes of the police reporter, much worse than the murderer who shoots or stabs. There is some great, intense human emotion of hate, anger or despair behind a murder. Behind the death in the street from a reckless or drunken driver there is nothing at all except complete, unthinking disregard for life.

Mayor W. B. (Cyclorama Bill) Hartsfield is talking in his campaign speeches about the 25-mile-an-hour speed law for the city of Atlanta. It is one of the finest laws ever passed. He declares for it. The people will applaud him. It ought to be enforced even more strictly than it is.

HIDING POLICEMEN One of the most untenable positions taken, it seemed to me, was that taken by those who protested against traffic policemen waiting in side streets to catch any cars violating the laws.

In heaven's name, what does the law-abiding driver care if police hide in all side streets, or even build duck blinds at convenient spots?

The man who is obeying the law will not be bothered. The man who knows the speed law protects children and adults cares not at all that police are seeking to catch those who break the law.

The man who keeps within the limit, who stops at traffic lights when they call for stops; who does what the law demands, never worries about the police.

It doesn't matter about the man who breaks the law. The man who drives carelessly or recklessly when he thinks the police are not looking, richly deserves to have a hidden policeman follow him and send him down for a fine, also richly deserved. Most of those who drive cars have never seen the effects of violent death from accidents. Those who have seen it, or who have had it happen to one close to them, want the speed laws enforced.

It is a strange commentary on our civilization when there is objection to the enforcement of the law. It is a dangerous development, this complaint and undercover agitation against the enforcement of laws which have demonstrated, beyond any shadow of doubt, their value. With lives being saved every day by the laws of the city and state, it is most odd there should be objection.

What does the man who obeys the law care about the police who seek to catch law violators? Nothing at all. Let the police continue to exert every effort to catch those who violate the laws of safety. The lives saved, the children spared to play and to grow up to become citizens, are the answer to their selfish protests.

THE RECORD The mayor is standing on his record and the traffic safety record is one of the best parts of his record.

The 25-mile-an-hour law was passed by council and signed by the mayor. Many believed he would not sign it. Others believed the law would prove so unpopular it would be repealed.

The law was unpopular for the first few weeks of its operation. Then the inevitable common sense of the people reacted to the fact that lives were being saved.

The law emphasized the subsequent losses of life.

A woman waiting for a car on Christmas Eve, her arms filled with toys, was killed by a speeding car. The next children to die beneath the speeding wheels of a reckless or law-breaking automobile, joined her in a great silent cry of protest.

Removing the ticket-fixing racket was another good part of that record.

So, when the mayor stands up and says that, if police have to wait in side streets to catch law violators, they will do it, the thinking drivers will applaud. The man who obeys the law only so long as he can see the traffic cop riding along the street, will not like it.

Mothers of children will like it. The wishes of those who want to violate the law when the cop isn't looking, are not important.

NYA Training Called Helpful To Job Finders

School Representatives Urge Continuance of 'Constructive Projects'

National Youth Administration supervisors and presidents of Georgia colleges and universities were told yesterday that students employed by NYA during school years tended to find employment more easily after graduation.

The statement, made by acting

State Administrator Boisfeuillet Jones, followed a unanimous decision by the supervisors meeting at Georgia Tech that NYA work should be related as much as possible to the occupational interests of students and to their courses of study as well.

Representatives from 37 private schools and the units of the University System, the supervisors urged that NYA projects continue to be "socially useful and constructive."

Leading the discussions were Dr. Charles H. Judd, a national NYA director, and D. B. Lasseter, formerly of Atlanta, who is deputy national administrator of the youth aid program.

They pointed out that the selection of students for NYA work should be made with care so that jobs go to those who need them to remain in school, and that types of work be suited to personalities and abilities.

There are nearly 3,000 students employed by NYA in 50 Georgia institutions of higher learning and over 10,000 working in high school projects. The college men and women receive from $10 to $20 per month for school employment.

COLLEGE REMODELING.

AMERICUS, Ga., Aug. 14.—Work was started today at Georgia Southwestern College on a remodeling project, plans for which call for many changes in the administration building, and minor repairs to the boys' dormitory. The board of regents announced $8,500 has been appropriated for the work.

Good Morning

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

Deepening concern that the will of God be done in our lives today, right here upon earth, even as it is done in heaven, appears to me quite evident on every side. One catches this fine note in much that is being written in current books, magazine articles, and in the daily press. It is even more evident in conversational groups.

To know and follow the will of God is the greatest idea ever suggested to the mind of man. History reveals great periods of upsurge in the onward, upward struggle of man, and every such period has been the result of the sincere desire of certain people to know and follow the will of God. Frequently, these upward movements have come when man's failure was desperately exhibited, as at the present hour of the world's history.

John Hay gave powerful expression to the idea in the following prayer:

Not in dumb resignation
We lift our hands on high,
Not like the nervous fatalist—
Content to trust and die;
Our faith springs like the eagle
That soars to meet the sun,
And cries exulting unto Thee:
O Lord, Thy will be done!

God's will! It bids the weak be strong,
It bids the strong be just;
No hand to beg, no lip to fawn,
No brow to kiss the dust;
Wherever man oppresses man,
Beneath the liberal sun,
O God, be there Thine arm laid bare,
Thy righteous will be done!

Uppermost in the mind of Jesus, if one may be allowed so to speak, was the will of God. He everywhere declared Himself committed to the will of the Father. In the Sermon on the Mount, the Magna Charta of His Kingdom, He declares:

"Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you."

Men are quietly saying today on every hand, "His will, after all, seems not only best but the only way out of our present grievous plight."

If it takes the suffering and grief of the present hour to teach us again this vital truth, perhaps we shall agree that it was not too much to pay for such a lesson.

"Thy will be done." Selah.

Rivers May Fill State Welfare Position Today

Four Are Being Considered for Post Deen Resigned.

Selection of Georgia's new state welfare director to replace Braswell Deen, who resigned to run for congress, has narrowed down to four persons, one of whom probably will be named today, Governor Rivers said yesterday.

The four are: The Rev. Joe Branch, of Davisboro, chaplain of the Georgia house of representatives and a Baptist minister.

Nelson M. Shipp, of Columbus, a veteran newspaperman.

Andrew Pearson, of Waycross, a former superior court clerk.

Ralph L. Ramsey, of Atlanta, secretary of the Georgia Education Association.

Both Branch and Shipp conferred with the Governor yesterday morning.

Three persons already have declined the job which pays $6,000 a year. They were Marvin Griffin, the Governor's executive secretary; B. B. Zellars, an assistant attorney general, and Sam Boykin, secretary of the State Highway Board.

ATLANTA GAS LIGHT COMPANY

EX-ATLANTAN IN THICK OF BATTLE—Robert E. Bunnelle (left), Associated Press correspondent and former Atlantan, is shown looking into the cabin of a German Dornier bomber which was shot down in a battle on England's southern coast. Bunnelle cabled an eye-witness story of the sky battle in which a mass of warplanes participated. Sam Robertson, correspondent of the Canadian Press, is looking into the cabin.

Bomber Blows British Ship Out of Water

Bunnelle Described Screaming Battle of Mass of Planes.

By ROBERT E. BUNNELLE.
A SOUTH COAST ENGLISH TOWN, Aug. 14.—(AP)—War as only a hundred and more German bombers can wage it came back like an avalanche to Britain's new coastal defenses today. I saw a lightship literally blown out of the water and sunk, her seams ripped open; I peered from a shelter while barrage balloons plunged in flames from the sky, their trailing cables falling almost at my feet; I saw a melee of perhaps 150 raiders and defenders surge through the clouds and in my ears all day dinned the crash of antiaircraft and the dull thud of bombs behind me.

Train Bombed.
My colleague, H. Taylor Henry, coming in from London, said incendiary bombs were dropped around his train, crawling cautiously through the green downs of mid-summer England. The biggest cloud of German raiders—I counted about 100 plainly visible, with others dotting the sky up higher—roared across the coast this forenoon from France, defiantly breasting a circle of 27 British fighters. The British ringed them; then, one by one, dived on them. One vast, wild jamboree of twisting, flame-spitting planes developed. Four planes, then another, then others, rocketed, burning, into the sea. We could not tell which side they belonged to.

In a crazy din of antiaircraft, machinegun and cannon explosions, six big junkers screamed at the lightship, dropping two bombs apiece. They sent up geysers from the sea; others dropped on land. A new swarm of raiders tore viciously at the barrage balloons moored from coastal barges. Some, in flames and shreds, came down—in a shower of spent machinegun bullets, aerial cannon shells, antiaircraft fragments and even an empty machinegun clip.

Plane Screams at Balloon.
As we watched the helpless lightship, a diving plane screamed at a balloon over our heads and the blimp-shaped bag came down a mass of fire, its cable clattering behind our shelter.

While other planes were getting inland and up and down the coast to other targets, a low-flying German bombed one seafarer near us, killing a home guard soldier, wounding several civilians and wrecking three houses.

In another town, a Messerschmitt fighter circled a railway station with machinegun bullets. Shelters saved the civilians there. I talked to survivors of the lightship crew after the vessel never directly hit, had foundered stern first with seams torn open from the bombs that dropped all around her.

"We had to lay to by her and watch two poor blokes drown," said one of the men, picked up from his lifeboat by a British speedboat. "They machinegunned us before we sank."

25 Farmers in Jackson Produce Bale Per Acre
JEFFERSON, Ga., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Twenty-five Jackson county farmers have achieved "bale-per-acre" production of cotton.

County Agent John L. Anderson said each had averaged a bale or more per acre for their entire farm acreage of cotton, the weight not including an additional 22 pounds of material used for bagging and ties.

The cotton growers include C. M. Barnett, Lucy Evans, C. E. Fleeman, Hollis Martin, H. E. Nunn, L. H. Hill, C. L. Sailors, Lewis Sailors, A. M. Venable, Glenn Wall, Glenn Whitehead, W. A. Wages, B. T. Kessler, Daniel and Seagraves, J. E. M. Baird, C. M. Bolton, Clinton Boone, V. L. Davis, E. L. Hunt, Florence Posey, R. V. Ritchey, Clyde Short, W. C. Standridge, T. D. Wilson and Mrs. J. B. Wilson.

Germans Bomb King Leopold British Train; Miss Target His Children

Troops, Carrying Arms, Go Skating at Scene of Air Battle.

By H. TAYLOR HENRY.
DOVER, England, Aug. 14.—(AP)—You're in the front line of the battle zone when the London-Dover train comes out of the last tunnel through the chalk hills of the coast. I realized it today, riding on that train. Daylight just had flooded the windows, after the tunnel's long gloom, and an incendiary bomb dropped barely a stone's throw from the right-of-way.

At least 40 German planes were overhead. Apparently they just had passed high over the Royal Air Force's coastal patrol, then dived low to try to disrupt transportation between the coast and the heart of England. Swiftly, eight or 10 more flame bombs crashed in a rough circle about the train.

One set fire to a field. Farmers quickly put out the blaze. The others seem merely to bury themselves and fizzle out.

When we pulled into Dover, the town was amazingly calm. The big midday air raid was just over. All the way from the station to the Shalimar hotel on the waterfront, my taxi driver kept up a play-by-play commentary on the attack.

"You just missed all the fun," he said. Tonight Dover was a peaceful kensington town—almost. Until dusk, however, planes, both German scouts and British defenders, circled frequently. Antiaircraft puffs chased the Germans.

Townfolk paraded on the waterfront. The music of a skating rink jangled, and the skaters went 'round and 'round. There were, however, unusual numbers of soldiers, sailors, marines and pilots in the crowds, most with rifles or pistols. Some soldiers skated at the rink with revolvers strapped to their hips.

Legion Auxiliary, Unit 1, To Hold Rummage Sale
American Legion Auxiliary, Unit No. 1, will hold a rummage sale from 2 until 9 o'clock next Wednesday at the Municipal Market for the benefit of the auxiliary's child welfare program.

The program, which was adopted at the last meeting, includes sponsorship of two clinics and day nurseries, one for white children and one for Negro children. Old clothing and household goods will be received at the Legion Club House or by Mrs. Mercer Harbin and Mrs. W. H. Thompson.

King Leopold Reunited With His Children

Belgian Ruler, However, Remains War Prisoner in Own Castle.

BRUSSELS (VIA BERLIN), Aug. 14.—(AP)—A prisoner of war in his own castle, King Leopold, of Belgium, has his children with him again—after weeks of separation amid war's tumult—but he still awaits the return of hundreds of thousands of his countrymen who fled to France during Germany's invasion of the Lowlands.

About 1,500,000 Belgians were wandering refugees in France when the armistice was signed. They have been returning only gradually to their homes.

Even before the conclusion of the Battle of France, Leopold did what he could to speed repatriation of Belgian refugees. He asked the president of Switzerland June 13 to negotiate with French and German authorities for the return of Belgians across Swiss frontiers. Last month he won the Red Cross co-operation.

The King's three children, Princess Charlotte, 13; Crown Prince Baudouin, 11, and Prince Albert, 7, were detained for a while in France—apparently against the wishes of their father, who had given instructions to send them to Portugal. German military authorities intervened to speed the children's home-coming recently.

Alone with King now are his mother, the Dowager Queen Elizabeth, and his brother, Prince Charles. They are living in Laeken Castle, near here, the usual residence of the royal family.

British Official Urges India To Accept Offer

Secretary Says Dominions Enjoy Free, Equal Association.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—(AP)—L. S. Amery, secretary for India, in another bid for India's wholehearted war aid, told the house of commons tonight that an "efficient" all-Indian congress would do well to welcome the offer of eventual dominion status.

"Dominionship is not an inferior status," he said. "We in the British Commonwealth enjoy security, prosperity and friendship which is the result of free and equal association."

Indian nationalists have demanded prior recognition of their independence as a price for wartime collaboration.

"Many independent nations," Amery said, "are not free to live their lives as they will. They are overrun or dismembered by more powerful neighbors."

Earlier Lord Strabolgi, labor peer, urged in the house of lords that Amery should "go quickly to the Indians with wide powers to get some agreement."

"If India's manpower could be mobilized," he said, "we need have no fear of threats to the straits settlements and Burma, and in certain circumstances, great help could be sent to Indo-China. Armed India could drive the Italians out of the whole of Africa."

Georgia Rivers Continue Rise; Let-Up in Sight

Crops Damaged, Roads Washed Out; Break in Weather Forecast.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Georgia received a letup today from excessive rains that drenched the state, damaged crops and sent rivers out of their banks in the wake of Sunday's destructive winds.

Generally fair weather was forecast for tomorrow, with the possible exception of scattered showers, and the Weather Bureau said the danger of new, dangerous floods was slight, although many rivers continued to rise slowly.

The Savannah river offered the principal flood threats because of heavy rains, ranging from six to nine inches, in the upper basin. Precautions were taken here, where three Negroes lost their lives yesterday, as a result of a cloudburst, but no serious damage was anticipated.

The rain had ceased in northeast Georgia, so that no new water is likely to swell the Savannah further. Weathermen pointed out that the flood danger might have been greater had not the ground been parched and able to absorb considerable moisture.

22-Foot Flood Stage.
At Milledgeville the Oconee river rose above the 22-foot flood stage and overflowed into the streets. A rise two feet above flood stage was forecast to reach Dublin Friday. Macon reported the Ocmulgee river rising but with little danger of flood. Likewise at Rome waters were higher than normal but far short of flood stage. The Chattahoochee and Flint rivers were swollen slightly and spread over lowland farm areas.

The rains and winds that buffeted the state the first of the week severely damaged crops, washed out roads, played havoc with communication systems, uprooted trees and tore roofs off buildings.

In northern counties apples were blown from trees, corn was flattened, peaches were destroyed and other crops damaged. Heavy loss of pecan crops was reported from many sections. Cotton had pastured as well as the vicinity of Cornelia more than 2,000 bushels of apples were blown from the trees.

A prolonged drought preceded the rain, damaging sweet potatoes, some cotton and peppers in the central section of the state, the weather bureau said in its weekly survey. Conditions were reported favorable for truck crops.

Cleanup Work Pressed.
At Savannah, where the storm first struck, cleanup work went forward as insurance men estimated total damage would not exceed $850,000. Red Cross officials said no mass relief problem had developed.

At Waycross, County Agent M. Gordon Nessmith said rains and high winds had caused no "material damage" to crops in Ware county, or in that southeastern section of the state generally.

Farther north, in Bibb county, about 30 per cent of the pecan crop was stripped from trees, cotton stands were twisted and corn stalks broken, according to County Agent D. F. Bruce. Damage also had resulted from soil washing, he said.

In Augusta area widespread damage to truck crops was reported, and County Agent Bright McConnell, of Richmond county, estimated pecan losses at $50,000. He reported heavy road damages, but said bridges throughout the county were intact.

Experts Make Study Of Prison Genius

Scientific experts are studying the strange case of George C. Fountaine, convict artist, murderer of his two children in Maryborough, Australia, who was sentenced to life imprisonment in 1925. Taught to draw by a counterfeiter, he has acquired great skill as an artist and the minister of home affairs has commissioned him to draw portraits. Today he sketches nothing but children—bonny, laughing-eyed children.

TO ARMS!—The 137th Infantry, Kansas National Guard, was not looking for reinforcements when it "captured" the town of Pierz during maneuvers at Camp Ripley, Minn., but it got help just the same. Unexpectedly a group of enthusiastic youngsters, armed with toy pistols, joined in the "battle."

Troops Sent Floods Ravage Into Carolina Five Southern Storm Sector States; 16 Die

Will Help Keep Order, Administer Relief in Beaufort County.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Aug. 14.—(AP)—National Guardsmen were ordered today to assist civil authorities in keeping order and administering relief in Beaufort county, hardest-hit area in the tropic hurricane that battered the South Carolina and Georgia coasts Sunday.

Governor Burnet R. Maybank announced that he had ordered the Beaufort company of the 263d Coast Artillery put at the disposal of Sheriff J. E. McTeer as soon as it could be transferred from Fort Moultrie, where the regiment was engaged in maneuvers before the storm.

"I told Sheriff McTeer to use the National Guard for whatever purpose he needed. When he is through with them, he will dismiss them," the governor said.

Maybank said he had declared a state of emergency at Edisto and Folly beaches, resorts damaged by the storm, to authorize officers to forbid curiosity seekers from going to the islands.

He said 500 families in Beaufort county needed food and housing. The Palmetto Coast Guard ship, took 80,000 pounds of food and a large quantity of water to Beaufort yesterday and returned today with 2,000 gallons of water and tons of food.

Wires Are Opened To Storm Areas

Normal telephone and telegraph communication between Atlanta and the storm-centers of Savannah and Charleston were restored yesterday.

M. B. Hargrave, of Postal Telegraph, and W. O. Gaffney, of Western Union, both reported their wire services between the three points were normal.

Southern Bell Telephone Company officials said long distance circuits between Atlanta, Charleston and Savannah had been restored, but were carrying an unusually heavy traffic.

scream for help when the automobile hit the water.

Near Greenville, Tenn., the Nolichucky river threatened to drown out the hydro plant at the East Tennessee Power & Light Company dam. Although there was water standing in the plant basement, operations were uninterrupted in supplying power to Bristol, Johnson City, Erwin and Greenville.

In South Carolina, Governor Maybank said he had received information from Augusta, Ga., to the effect that the crest of the river at that point is expected to reach unprecedented heights within the next 24 hours. "Consequently, South Carolinians in that vicinity will probably need every assistance," he declared.

Twenty South Carolina highways were closed at 5 p. m. yesterday, the Highway Department reported, due to heavy rains in the Piedmont.

C. of C. Proposal To Be Studied By the County

Legal Department Asked To Report on Changes Advocated.

The county is going to make a study of charges advocated by the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, Ed Almand, chairman of the county commission, announced yesterday.

He asked the county legal department to survey the proposed changes and to report to the commission whether or not the recommendations would be "for the good of the county."

Among other actions taken by the commissioners at a special meeting yesterday were:

1. Denied the petition of the Atlanta Tallow Company for permission to rebuild its tallow rendering plant off Howell Mill road which burned this past spring. Residents of the neighborhood objected to the plant and the commissioners denied the petition of the company when the legal department ruled they "have no jurisdiction."

2. Approved plans for obtaining rights of way for the Bolton railroad underpass which the State Highway Department will build. Cost is approximately $15,000.

3. Referred to the county and city legal departments the job of deciding what permanent plan must be adopted to arrange for disposal of dead animals—formerly burned at the Atlanta Tallow Company plant. Temporarily, the county is burning the dead animals.

4. Promised to consider installation of a county "bookmobile," or traveling library, next year.

5. Postponed consideration of requests for salary raises for deputy sheriffs totaling $1,020 per month.

THE "WALKIE TALKIE"—Private John Gallagher, of Arlington, Mass., scouts the roads and fields in National Guard maneuvers with his 40-pound radio outfit strapped to his back, and is in constant two-way communication with his headquarters. The army boys call the outfit the "walkie talkie."

One of Five Governors May Head Conference

If tradition is followed, one of the five senior governors of the south will succeed Governor Rivers, of Georgia as chairman of the Southern Conference of Chief Executives when Rivers retires to private life next January.

Among the 13 states embraced by the organization there are only five governors holding over for another term. They are Frank Dixon, of Alabama; Prentice Cooper, of Tennessee; Burnet Rhetts Maybank, of South Carolina; Leon C. Phillips, of Oklahoma; and W. Lee O'Daniel, of Texas.

Fulton Taxing System 'Mess,' Spalding Says

Advocates Moving Offices of All Officials Into One Wing.

Fulton county's "loose" taxing system was roundly criticized yesterday at a meeting of the county commissioners by Hughes Spalding as head of the county legal department. He called the whole thing "a mess."

"The legal department recommends that there be closer physical co-operation among the tax collector, the tax receiver, the tax assessors and the tax investigators," Spalding said, advocating moving the offices of all into one wing of the first floor of the courthouse so workers could readily co-operate with each other.

The commissioners asked Spalding and James L. Respass, county auditor, to make a study of needed changes and to make definite recommendations at a special meeting of the board at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning.

The matter was precipitated by the request of Tax Collector T. Earl Suttles for five additional men for the remainder of the year to help collect the back taxes which Suttles has been mandated to collect or levy on the property. Spalding and several of the commissioners declared they thought that if the tax investigating department was placed under Suttles that no additional help would be needed to collect taxes.

The county attorney criticized the system whereby the tax investigators collect taxes in the name of Suttles and pointed out that it is Suttles' duty to collect taxes and not the duty of the tax assessors, who have jurisdiction over the investigators.

At the same meeting the commissioners requested Respass to "show how we can come out in the clear financially by the end of this year." Gloer Hailey pointed out that the county is already "$20,000 in the red." The county must live within its budget or the commissioners themselves are personally liable.

Spalding emphasized his criticism was directed only "at the taxing system, which has been the custom for 40 or 50 years," that has allowed hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of delinquent taxes to accumulate.

Convicted Bug Operator Gets Conditional Pardon

A conditional pardon has been granted Elisha Morris, convicted "bug operator," clerks in the Fulton criminal court were notified yesterday by the Governor's office.

Morris was said by police to be known as "the lone wolf." The pardon stated he was convicted in June, 1940, and given 12 months. Fulton criminal court records show that he was convicted in January, 1939, and that he was indicted again by the grand jury in May, 1940. A bond of $1,000 was set in the May case and Morris remained in Fulton tower yesterday.

Life-or-Death Baby of 1938 Dies of Glioma

Jury's Decision To Re- move Eye Attracted National Attention.

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—(P)—Baby Helaine Colan, tiny central figure in a life-or-death drama that attracted nationwide attention two years ago, died today.

Her death, at the age of two years and four months, was attributed to glioma.

In the spring of 1938 it was ascertained that glioma, a cancerous malady, had blinded the infant's left eye and had impaired the vision of the right.

For four days her parents, Dr. Herman Colan, a dentist, and his wife, sought to decide whether they would chance death within several months from the growth creeping toward Helaine's brain or whether they should permit surgeons to give her a lease on a life of partial or complete blindness.

The case was placed in the hands of a "jury" of 10 X-ray and brain specialists, the father, two rabbis and the maternal grandfather, a physician. Their verdict was "operate."

Helaine's left eye and part of the optic nerve were removed. X-ray treatments were employed on her right eye later. Until late last year she seemed bright and active. Four months ago she lost her sight.

Edward Noble Quits To Run For the Senate

Undersecretary of Commerce Resigns; Was Organizer of CAA.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—(UP)—Undersecretary of Commerce Edward J. Noble resigned today after four years as undersecretary of the Civil Aeronautics Authority.

Authority who resigned today without explanation, will seek the Republican senatorial nomination in Connecticut, the United Press was informed tonight.

His resignation, along with President Roosevelt's acceptance of it, was made public in an exchange of letters released by the White House.

Neither missive gave any clue to why he was quitting but it was learned that he will seek the seat of Senator Francis T. Maloney, Democrat, Connecticut, a moderate New Dealer, whose term expires in January.

Noble, a Republican, was drafted into the administration two years ago when the CAA was beginning to take shape. He subsequently was charged with organizing it and he served as chairman until recently when the agency was absorbed by the Commerce Department.

He strenuously opposed the transfer which Mr. Roosevelt requested in a government reorganization order, and it was reported he would resign. Instead, he accepted appointment as undersecretary of commerce, a post which divorced him completely from the CAA.

Patrolman Taylor Goes Home Quickly

Radio Patrolman D. C. Taylor, who cruises on the northwest side of the city, made a hurry-up investigation on the southwest side last night.

The operator at Station WPDY had just sent out a call for Patrolmen E. W. Haynes and J. T. Mitchell, who patrol the southwest side, to see about a prowler at 122 Sells avenue, S. W. Taylor was listening in.

"Hey," he suddenly shouted into his two-way radio. "Hold everything. That's my house!" Whereupon, he and his partner, Jim Galvin, departed the northwest section to aid Haynes and Mitchell in the southwest section.

But by the time the four policemen got to Taylor's home the prowler had vanished.

40 Film Stars, Writers Named In Red Probe

Grand Jury Hears of Heavy Contributions by Movie Leaders.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 14.—(P)—More than a dozen prominent Hollywood actors, actresses and film writers were named in grand jury testimony, made public tonight, as members of the Communist party and heavy contributors to its support.

The district attorney's office made public a transcript of testimony given last week by John L. Leech, a former Los Angeles county Communist party organizer, before a county grand jury investigating Communist activities.

His testimony identified these as members of the party: Lionel Stander, actor; Jean Muir, actress; Frank Tuttle, film technician; Tania Tuttle, his wife; Frank Davis, producer; Clifford Odets, writer and scenarist; Sam Ornitz, writer; Franchot Tone, actor; Fredric March, actor; Gregory La Cava, director; Lester Cole, scenarist; James Cagney, actor; Humphrey Bogart, actor; Frank Scully, writer; Francis Lederer, actor; Herbert Bibbelman, director; and Buddy Schulberg, son of B. P. Schulberg, producer.

To further the work of the party among motion picture people and to obtain funds for party support, Leech testified, "study groups," in which tenets of the party were taught, were organized among writers, producers and actors.

Concerning Stander, the transcript showed Leech testified: "Some time in 1935 he came into my office at 224 South Spring street and presented his membership book and his transfer from New York to Los Angeles. I took a payment for him and gave him the official receipt of the Communist party, made out in the name of J. Rand. I have known him as a loyal and trusted member of the Communist party. At times he contributed as much as $75 a week."

Leech said Frank Davis, actor and producer, "made the largest contribution to my knowledge of any individual, $500 a month."

He testified James Cagney had been a heavy contributor to party funds and was "both a member and contributor in 1934." Humphrey Bogart, he said, possessed a Communist party book and was on a "master list" of contributors.

Four Are Dead In Two State Auto Crashes

Dalton Woman, Three Greensboro Youths Are Victims.

Four persons died and seven persons were injured in widely separated crashes on Georgia highways yesterday. Watermelon-laden trucks figured in both accidents.

The dead: Mrs. Ralph McDonald Monger, 18, of Dalton, killed when an automobile in which she was riding on the Chattanooga highway just north of Tunnelhill sideswiped a truck.

Junior L. Calloway, 14, son of J. L. Calloway, of Greensboro, died in the Madison hospital shortly before midnight of multiple injuries. He suffered broken arms, broken legs and a severe head injury.

Charles Mullins, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Mullins, who was riding in the car with an Athens hospital shortly after the car in which he, four other boys and a Negro were riding crashed head-on into a watermelon truck a mile and a half from Greensboro on the Madison road.

Osborne Jackson, 14, son of Robert Jackson, of Greensboro, who was riding in the car with young Mullins, died about 8:45 last night in a Madison hospital. The hospital said he received a severe brain injury and fractured leg.

Leman Hall, 21, of Dixon, Tenn., brother of Mrs. Monger and driver of the car in which she was riding, was arrested by state highway patrolmen and Sheriff Louis L. Vining, of Whitfield county, and is being held in the Whitfield county jail on charges of driving while under the influence of liquor.

Hall, Miss Beatrice Adams, 19, of Dalton, and Rose Walker, all of Dalton and all occupants of the car in which Mrs. Monger met death, were injured. Treated in a Dalton hospital, all were dismissed.

Mrs. Monger is survived by her husband, an infant daughter, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Hall, of Dixon, Tenn. The body will be taken to Dixon Thursday for funeral services and burial.

Injured Listed. The injured in the accident near Greensboro were listed as follows: Alton Kitchens, 15, son of Candice Kitchens, of Greensboro, was said to have been seriously injured, having received a fractured leg and body injuries. He had chances of recovering, the physician said.

Marshall Bryant Jr., 13, son of Marshall Bryant, of Greensboro, was said to have been badly injured. The extent of his injuries could not be determined last night.

Crashed Into Truck. Garnett Phelps, 25-year-old Negro driver of the car in which the five boys were riding, had a broken leg and shoulder.

Investigating officers said Phelps, janitor for a Madison theater, volunteered to drive the five boys to a swimming place outside of Greensboro, and that he was traveling at high speed when he crashed head-on into a watermelon truck while attempting to pass an automobile and a wagon at the top of a hill.

Barney Greene, driver of the truck, and C. A. Foster, riding with him, were unhurt.

CIO Workers Again Sued in Sit-down Strike

Apex Hosiery Firm Asks $1,171,957 Damages From Union.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 14.—(P)—The Apex Hosiery Company sued the American Federation of Hosiery Workers (CIO) in common pleas court today for $1,171,957 damages the company contends resulted from a sit-down strike two years ago.

The suit asks that the trial jury fix punitive damages in addition to losses to buildings and machinery.

A U. S. district court verdict last April awarded the company $711,932.35 damages against the union's branch 1 and its president, William Leader. The jury found the strike interfered with interstate commerce in violation of federal antitrust laws.

On May 27, however, the U. S. supreme court set aside the lower court verdict in a 6-to-3 decision, which held that the Sherman antitrust law had not been violated.

Land Recovery South as No. 1 To Be Sought By Louisiana To Be Studied

Irregularities Charged in Leases Made to Private Capital.

BATON ROUGE, La., Aug. 14.—(UP)—Louisiana Attorney General Eugene Stanley tonight announced he would institute proceedings to recover an estimated $100,000,000 of state-owned lands leased to private capital in the last 12 years.

Stanley said five leases would be canceled because of "irregularities in inception." The acreage he will attempt to recover for the state amounts to approximately 1,500,000 acres, Stanley said.

The Louisiana attorney general said 25 oil leases would be canceled because the land had not been developed. He said 20 other leases were under investigation.

Stanley said the state planned to file suit to recover profits on lands under lease from the state at a "nominal price" that were transferred within several days after they were obtained from Louisiana at a profit of some "2,000 per cent" to the lessee.

NEW ORLEANS HOSPITAL CONTINUES TO SETTLE
NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 14.—(UP)—A special investigating committee today made public an engineers' report saying that New Orleans' $13,000,000 charity hospital would continue to settle structurally "probably for years."

The report on structural conditions of the 4,000-bed medical and hospital center was compiled by Dr. Karl Terzaghi, a consulting engineer, and Professor Hardy Cross, Yale University.

They said that the tower section of the new hospital building had sunk more than 14 inches as of last June 10, while the wings of the building had sunk about six inches.

The committee said it was "interesting to find that the original construction contract called for 9-5/8" pilings, of which 8,019 were to be 43 feet long and cost 31 cents per linear foot.

"The final schedule of revised pilings shows that there were 9-5/8" of which 7,532 were 28 feet long, at cost 39 1-4 cents per linear foot," the committee said.

Emory Will Offer Course Dealing With Dixie Opportunities.

The possibility that the south may be America's number one economic opportunity despite opinions that it is the nation's leading economic problem will be investigated this September in a new course to be offered in Emory University's school of business administration.

Devoted exclusively to the study of business problems in southern industry, the course is designed to acquaint students with the operation of major business enterprises in this section—serving not only to assist them in entering business here but also in obtaining an understanding of local industries.

Professor Boyce F. Martin, newly appointed dean of the business administration school, announced the course and explained that particular attention would be paid to cotton goods, hosiery, rayon, cigarettes and kraft paper.

Special visits to near-by plants and lectures by prominent business executives will supplement the daily classroom work, Professor Martin explained. Until recently he was assistant dean of the Harvard school of business administration.

While in Atlanta he resided on

Train Slightly Cuts
Sleeper on Tracks
Hef M. Samples, white, of Angier Springs road, had a sample of what it's like to be hit by a freight train last night—and also a broken leg.

Radio Patrolmen Timmie and Epps said Samples was sleeping on the Southern railroad right of way near Forrest road about 10 o'clock last night. His head, they said, was resting peacefully between the cross-ties beside the tracks. There came a roar and Samples awoke and rose up.

The train smacked him over the head and Grady hospital attaches a short while later sewed up numerous but not dangerous cuts on his scalp.

British Find Nazis' 'Chutes Near Factories

carry out sabotage in that rich industrial area, the United Press quoted informed sources.)

Striking north of the bomb-pounded blitz belt along the south coast, Nazi raiders swept over northwestern England and north and south Scotland today in attacks before dawn.

The swift new raids were characteristic of the feeler flights through the darkness that have preluded the mighty air assaults each of the last four days.

German warplanes earlier in the day struck in series waves at England, in the long and punishing preliminary to the invasion and the government put the whole country on guard against Nazi paratroopers.

This action against the menace of a ghostly form of attack, which worked so well in Holland and Belgium, in France and Poland, was taken at about the time that 17 abandoned German parachutes were found in villages of the industrial midlands—an area where sabotage would gravely hurt.

Other such discoveries had been reported earlier from the areas in England and one in Scotland.

Eleven German airmen were reported captured in the midlands, but nothing was said of this in reports dealing with the abandoned parachutes.

"The search is continuing," said the Ministry of Home Security, "and anyone who has information which might be of assistance should communicate with the police."

Among signs of an early "zero hour" for a German invasion were the discovery of German mine-sweeping trawlers, two of which were sunk, in the North Sea obviously clearing away mines for troop transports; renewed bans on public dancing in Germany, just as before the campaigns against Poland, the low countries and France, and the concentration of German aerial attacks on Dover, channel gate for a possible invasion.

Win by Offensive. Determination to carry the war to Germany was voiced by British War Secretary Anthony Eden in a world broadcast.

"For us the real war will begin when we take the offensive and strike home at the enemy," declared Eden. "That is the way wars are won and that is the way we mean to do."

The latest English centers blasted by the Germans were Southampton, Dover and Hastings. At Southampton, a train was damaged and several people were injured. From Rome came word that squadrons of British bombers had crossed the Alps yesterday and bombed the industrial cities of northern Italy, killing 22 and injuring more than 50.

The Fascists called the British attack "a barbarous and cowardly attack" and insisted there was no military damage.

British reports said plane factories at Milan and Turin were smashed.

British bombers also rained explosives on Germany. Attacks on the Junkers aircraft factories at Dessau and Bernburg, north of Leipzig, Germany, and on munitions factories were announced by the British.

The air ministry gave beleaguered Britons a ray of encouragement by reporting that Nazi aerial assaults yesterday were "much less pronounced." However, Germany said the aerial blitzkrieg continued unabated and reported masses of floating plane and balloon wreckage off Dover as evidence of its effectiveness.

Hundreds of Planes Lost. Last night, after the fourth straight day of mass raids—five days counting last Thursday—the belligerents turned in these claims: Britain—Twenty German planes shot down to three British losses. Germany—Forty-two British planes shot down to 10 Germans. That gave this grand total for the five days of mass raids:

Britain—Two hundred and eighty-five German planes shot down, 71 British losses admitted. Germany—Four hundred and five British planes destroyed, 93 German planes admitted lost.

The hundreds of Nazi dive bombers and fighters—300 of them in one thunderous flight that swept over the southeast coast alone—did not attack alone. German naval units, believed by British observers to be acting in a general effort to sweep the North sea and English channel clear of the British mine belt and thus to prepare the way for a sea-borne invasion, prowled English waters.

Two Sunk. In one engagement in the North sea, two British destroyers were reported to have broken up a German flotilla of six trawlers and three torpedo-carrying speedboats, sending one trawler and one speedboat to the bottom while the others fled under a smoke screen.

The admiralty was careful not to disclose the location of this small but significant engagement but neutral sources placed it somewhere in the North sea. This appeared to support the belief of many observers that, when the great attack comes, it will be sprung not along the southern and southeast coast, the scenes of the greatest running air battles of history, but somewhere along Britain's northeast coast.

A landing there would be handy to Britain's industrial "black belt," and would give the Nazis scope for a western offensive which, if

ITALIAN MOTOR CITY BOMBED—British planes dropped several bombs on Turin, Italy, yesterday, Rome reports said. The British may have been striking at the huge Fiat auto plant shown in this picture, since plane motors are also produced in the factory. Rome said no industrial plants were hit. (Story on Page 1.)

Envoy Cudahy Nazi 'Chutist Is Vindicated 'Suicide Squad' Lands, Report By Roosevelt

Welles Says Incident Is Closed; Ambassador Will Not Resign.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—(P) Ambassador John Cudahy gained vindication from both President Roosevelt and the State Department tonight in a controversy over an unauthorized press interview he gave in London concerning conditions in Belgium.

After a long talk with the President, Cudahy, ambassador to Belgium, said he had been authorized to say "that I received no rebuke and none was intended." Cudahy will not resign, as has been reported.

Later he spent an hour with Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state, who had previously asserted that the envoy violated "standing instructions" of the State Department.

After this meeting, Cudahy left the talking to Welles except to say the discussion had been very satisfactory and he had made a full report on conditions in Belgium.

Welles then announced that no rebuke had been administered, that Cudahy would take a vacation and that the incident was closed so far as the State Department was concerned.

The acting secretary said Cudahy had told him some press reports on his London interview had misquoted him in many important particulars.

In the Associated Press report of Cudahy's interview, which he read in New York and described as a "fair statement" of his remarks, he was quoted as saying Belgium faced a condition "close to famine" by mid-September unless food supplies reached there from the United States.

The British press criticized this as an implied plea for relaxation of the blockade to permit American food supplies to go to Belgium.

completed, would cut the island defenses in two.

It was the fourth successive day of almost ceaseless air raids—raids which kept the gray skies full of clamor—and as before the south and southeast coasts were the Nazis' especial targets.

In a single 90-minute battle, 80 German bombers broke through the coastal defenses, under the protective wings of a cloud of fighter planes, to drop bombs inland.

150 Planes in Battle. In another screaming engagement, a total of 150 planes—attackers and defenders—tossed angrily in the low and scudding clouds.

One of the hardest-hit of all areas was the industrial midlands, where swarms of raiders dropped tons of bombs, many of them striking homes. In this section alone at least five persons were killed.

Berlin advices said returning bombers described masses of floating wreckage of planes and balloons shot down off Dover—a possible sign of conditions ripe for invasion.

As if these body blows were a prelude to a land and sea invasion, the government yesterday ordered a ban on public dancing, as it did during the Polish campaign and the offensive in western Europe. Recently dancing has been permitted two nights a week.

Berlin Gets Scare. German bombers started their work in the early morning, taking advantage of thick clouds over the channel, to slip over the British coastline for raids far inland. But apparently the clouds hid swarms of British planes too, judging by subsequent German accounts of ensuing battles.

Berlin had its third air raid warning of the war, and informed sources admitted British raiders had reached Potsdam, 20 miles west of the capital, before being turned back by anti-aircraft guns.

The warning sent Berlin residents to their cellars for 47 minutes while the sound of distant firing was heard, but no bombs were reported dropped.

official Nazi quarters said today.

The parachute squad—vanguard of previous German invasion—was landed Tuesday in the vicinity of Manchester and Birmingham to carry out sabotage in that rich industrial sector, informed quarters said, although official quarters refused to give any information concerning the parachutists.

The "suicide squad" was reported to have been landed to weaken British morale and cripple Britain's key points.

The "suicide squad," it was suggested, also might gain invaluable data regarding distribution of British strength and defenses in preparation for the final Nazi drive, still to come, which German quarters said will overshadow any previous attacks on Britain.

Never Follow A Republican, Writer Learns the deep recesses of the mountains.

At last we came to the end of the road—a place where all civilized people should forsake motor vehicles for horses, but we took to walking instead.

For miles, it seemed, we trudged through the mud with rolled-up trousers. Each mail box that loomed up in the distance promised to be that of the professor. Pickett tried to keep up the courage of the party without a great deal of success.

When the professor's modest shack finally was visible through the trees, the three of us took on more heart. It appeared that we were soon to see the former Harvard man who tired of the ways of the world. It might be a good story, after all.

Professor Out. But the professor was not at home. In addition to tilling the soil of his farm, which has become widely recognized as a successful experiment in north Georgia, he also acts as the county surveyor of Pickens county. He was out somewhere running a line.

Lusty yells that echoed through the forest failed to produce the professor. In desperation we began the journey back to civilization. By this time Pickett's popularity had suffered a sharp decline. And no Gallup Poll was necessary.

But that was not all. When we got back to the car we found it was stuck fast in the mud. It could not be moved. Our deadline was getting nearer and nearer. We could see the frowns of the city editor as he speculated on where his wandering reporter could be. Those frowns haunted us like the spooks of childhood days.

Out of Mud. Three burly men came our way and offered their strong backs to get us out of the mud. After repeated efforts we managed to free the car from the sticky mud. The rest of the trip was without serious consequences.

Some day we hope to meet the professor and learn his ideas about government. In the meantime we wish him Godspeed and trust that he will bring some pressure on his county commissioners to topsoil his road.

On the way back to Jasper we met an 82-year-old mountaineer, with tobacco-stained whiskers, plodding along on his trusty horse.

What He Thought. We asked him what he thought about the political situation, wondering if he even knew who the candidates for governor were. "What do you want to know about politics?" he asked as he cupped a hand to his deaf ear and coached his horse to stand still. "Who do you want to be elected governor?" he was asked. "Reckon I'm for Talmadge," he said. "Everybody else is. Git up." And with this he prodded his horse into a gallop.

It was an interesting day. But the Republicans did us wrong.

Looks Forward to Press Association Meeting in Savannah.

Georgia newspaper men hope the recent storm damage in Savannah and at the beach on Tybee isn't as bad as reported.

Because Savannah is one of their favorite cities and especially because they're going to spend a day or two there next week—at the annual meeting of the Georgia Press Association.

The association meets at a different place every year but somehow—unless the meeting is held too far north, as it was last year in Calhoun—the editors invariably wind up in Savannah for the weekend.

The convention starts next Thursday morning at Macon, where W. T. Anderson, the two Macon newspapers, the Chamber of Commerce and Mercer University will be hosts. On Friday morning the visitors will take a train to Savannah, where the newspapers will give a dinner and Charlie Day will be host at Savannah Beach.

I get a kick out of these conventions, meeting friends I see only once a year. I've missed only one in a long time—that of last summer, which met while I was in New York. I think I'd have had more fun in Calhoun.

Have a Parsec

Just in case you're bothered about the billions the government spends or plans to spend—and billions used to be merely a mathematical word—you might consider a few figures from Eddington's "Our Expanding Universe." Mr. Eddington indulges in a few sums which make us feel like tearing up our salary check and tossing the fragments to the pigeons. Says he:

"The earth is part of the solar system.

"The solar system is part of the galaxy, or milky way.

"A hundred thousand million stars make a galaxy.

"A hundred thousand million galaxies make a universe.

"Each star in the milky way has more than a cubic parsec in which to move.

"A parsec is 90,000,000 miles, the distance of the sun from the earth, multiplied by 206,000."

If you think he's inaccurate, get out your old footrule and go to it.

Those Cuffs

Column I ground out some time ago when fresh out of ideas was devoted to torture of old-fashioned separate starched collar which pushed the adam's apple back against the upper vertebrae.

Letter from reader in West Virginia asks if I remember the separate cuffs—at first worn in the round and afterward with link buttons, in the oval. I hate to confess it, but I do.

And the tin cuff holders, intricate contraptions. One end was inserted in the hind buttons of the cuffs and latched. The other end, a spring claw, fastened on to the shirt sleeve. One could adjust the cuffs to protrude just the proper length beyond his coat sleeves.

Some cuffs, too, were double-ended. If they showed a dark streak just where the wrists made contact they could be turned around—and lo, a week's laundry saved.

Has anyone anything to contribute in re. celluloid collars, straight up or turned over? No manuscripts will be returned unless self-addressed and stamped envelopes are attached.

Appeal to Voters

Candidates, for high offices and low, profess to appeal to the sound, common or horse sense of the great proletariat—or the common people.

Yet some of their propaganda, in this campaign as in others of the past, is hogwash which should not register on the mind of a seven-year-old child.

There are candidates who are able men, with excellent records in or out of public office, who seem to deem it necessary to get down to dirt level or below it to get the votes.

Maybe they're right. They and their campaign managers have experience. But I have an idea that Uncle Jeems Peavy and his fellows who set around the fillin station along about sundown are not such ignorant boobies as the politicians think.

But maybe I'm wrong. I usually am. Especially about politics.

Question of free range—or cattle on the highways instead of inside fences—is debatable down in south Georgia, where the free range people—who like to fatten their cows on other people's land—seem to have the most votes.

I didn't know what James P. Chapman, editor of the Lowndes County News, thought about the problem until today, when I read what he'd written about it. He and J. W. Norwood, his boss and publisher, glimpsed a cow. They tried to dodge her. Their car skidded and turned around three times and wound up across the ditch. And the cow kept on grazing beside the asphalt.

Mr. Norwood—and presumably his boss—are now sold on the idea of keeping livestock off the highways. Everybody is—except the owners of the cattle.

SCHOOL OPENING SET.

BARNESVILLE, Ga., Aug. 14.—Colonel J. E. Guillebeau, president of Gordon Military College and superintendent of Barnesville city schools, has announced Gordon grammar school will open Monday, September 2. EASY PREY FOR FIRE Would be Battle Hill's main building, shown from rear. Atlanta will decide in the city primary whether she wants these conditions by her vote on the bond issue.

Leaders Draft Plans To Spur Bond Campaign

Appeals Will Be Made at Political, Civic Club Gatherings.

Phases of the campaign for passage of the $4,000,000 bond issue, to be voted upon September 4, were considered at a large group meeting at Battle Hill sanitarium yesterday.

Those present represented various groups and organizations interested in the success of the campaign and they agreed to meet again today with the executive committee, of which J. P. Allen is general chairman, to take on the various duties in the campaign assigned to them.

Means of bringing to the attention the bond issue was discussed, and it is proposed to make appeals within the next three weeks at all political meetings, civic clubs, gatherings, the theaters, and various other public places.

Those meeting yesterday were Mr. Allen, chairman; Press Huddleston, vice chairman; T. E. Glenn, Dr. J. Moss Beeler, Ed S. Cook, William Van Houten and Dr. Willis A. Sutton, Mayor Hartsfield, Mrs. Fare Hough, Frank Wilson, Miss Elizabeth Anderson, T. W. Clift, Mrs. J. D. Thomas, Miss Tommie Parrish, Dr. J. C. Burch, Miss Ira Jarrell, Kendall Weisinger, Miss Lucy Branley, Mrs. J. V. Peterson, H. O. Burgess, Mrs. J. W. Morrison, Mrs. Mamie K. Taylor, Dr. Charles Rushin, Mrs. Samuel Hirsch, Morgan Blake, Ralph McMill, John Carlton and T. R. Whitten.

SANATORIUM DANGEROUS AS A FIRE HAZARD

Housed in rambling one-story frame structures, Battle Hill sanitarium has developed over a period of about 30 years ago to one of the most dangerous fire hazards owned and operated by the city, and approval of the $4,000,000 bond issue on September 4 yesterday offered the only hope of remedying the condition.

When new demands were made on the capacity of the plant, other frame buildings were added, and more beds were crowded into the various wards until at the present time there is a hodgepodge arrangement which lacks efficiency, adequacy or order.

It is impossible to protect patients from fire in such a structure, and Dr. J. C. Burch, superintendent, and other officers yesterday emphasized the "good luck" of the structures in not being wiped out before now with an appalling loss of life.

"It would be impossible to remove the patients if a fire got beyond control in a short time," Dr. Burch said.

Out of the $2,000,000 provided for hospital improvements in the $4,000,000 bond issue, a modern, fireproof and adequate plant will be erected at Battle Hill.

Upkeep Costly. Large sums of money are expended annually in upkeep because the buildings are literally worn out. The place is one continuous patch, but in spite of this, parts of the older structures are likely to collapse at any time. It is impossible to keep patching and bolstering buildings which are ready to fall apart.

Dr. Burch yesterday issued an appeal to voters to "help us replace this dangerous structure with a new one by voting for the hospital bonds."

He released figures which tell the hospital story of how Battle Hill is attempting to meet the demands made upon it by citizens stricken with tuberculosis.

The monthly average of hospital days is 7,142; an average of 14,342 pounds of laundry are done a month; an average of 27,534 meals are served a month.

Despite the almost superhuman efforts of the staff of doctors, nurses and attendants, they are not able to keep abreast of the calls for service.

A waiting list of 101 names is now on file at the hospital. That means that 101 persons who need hospitalization are being denied their chance to fight back to health because of lack of facilities.

"If the people of Atlanta would just take the time necessary to come out and see Battle Hill they would vote for the bonds," Dr. Burch said. "I wish they all knew the facts as we who work under present handicaps know them."

Rivers' Barbecue In Valdosta Today

VALDOSTA, Ga., Aug. 14.—(AP) Oak coals glow under 10,000 pounds of meat, and 1,000 gallons of Brunswick stew today, as Valdosta and Lowndes county friends of Governor Rivers arranged for a welcome when he comes tomorrow to dedicate his radio station, WGOV.

Spokesmen for the event said a crowd of 15,000 was expected at the "biggest barbecue ever staged here." Members of the Valdosta Child Welfare clinic and Junior Service League will assist in serving the meal.

The Governor is slated to speak at 5 o'clock, and the meal will be served immediately afterward.

Wiley Smith, expert barbecuer of this section, in charge of the cooking, said it was the largest undertaking since he has been directing barbecues.

Friends of the Governor declared that the event is non-political, and is planned "just so the south Georgia friends of Governor Rivers can get together and honor him."

BUSINESS INDEX RISES. NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Time Magazine's index of business conditions advanced last week to 91.5 from 89.7 the previous week. A year ago it stood at 100.6.

Own Cab Fleet Being Studied By Hotel Men

Henry Grady Situation Causes Group To Discuss Move.

Backing up the Henry Grady hotel management in its efforts to resist unionization of its employees, the Atlanta Hotelmen's Association is considering the revival of its year-old plan to buy a fleet of taxicabs and operate them in competition with existing companies.

Since picketing of the hotel began a week ago, union cab drivers have refused to pick up or discharge fares within a block of the hotel.

Nothing Definite.

Plans to form a company and buy between 30 and 50 cabs were discussed at a recent meeting of the association, Steve Styron, executive secretary, said yesterday, though no definite details were worked out.

More than a year ago the hotelmen's association wrote City Clerk Joe Richardson asking information on the steps that must be taken to gain a taxi franchise in the city.

At the time, Styron said, the association considered the service provided by Black and White and Yellow cabs inadequate. When the operating companies placed more taxis on the streets, the hotelmen cancelled their plans for setting up their own company.

Explains Position.

Explaining Black and White's position, President A. L. Belle Isle said yesterday that the company was able to meet any ordinary demands on it.

"At present we are able and prepared to serve the Henry Grady," Belle Isle added, "but our drivers are in sympathy with organized labor, and efforts to unionize the hotel."

He pointed out that the cab company was also liable for the safety of its passengers, and while he was not expecting any violence to develop around the hotel, it was a possibility that the company was forced to consider.

"There is no necessity for any additional cabs in the city under the present method of operation. We can meet all ordinary demands," Belle Isle declared.

Explain to Guests.

City Attorney Jack Savage said yesterday that application to establish an additional cab company in the city must first meet the approval of the police committee and then the mayor and city council.

As pickets continued to pace the sidewalk before the Henry Grady, other hotels advised their guests to stay at the Henry Grady if that hotel was their choice.

Signs over the desks of other hotels read:

"There is no strike at the Henry Grady hotel. The hotel is being picketed because three men walked out."

"If you are a regular patron of the Henry Grady hotel, stopping here because you were misinformed and desire to return to the Henry Grady, please speak to the manager or clerk on duty and he will be glad to make these arrangements."

The message was signed by the Atlanta Hotelmen's Association.

Denton Heads Doctors' Drive For Defense

Atlanta Physician To Enlist Medicos in Preparedness Program.

Appointment of Dr. John F. Denton, Atlanta physician, as head of the local medical preparedness committee was announced yesterday by Dr. Charles C. Rushin, president of the Fulton County Medical Society.

A major in the medical corps during the World War, Dr. Denton will be charged with enlisting every member of the medical society in the medical preparedness program. He will co-operate with Dr. Edgar H. Greene, state chairman of the medical preparedness committee.

Dr. Denton is a graduate of Emory University and the New York University Medical School. Following his internship at Bellevue hospital in New York he entered private practice here in 1906.

He is a member of the staffs of several hospitals here and well known in medical circles. He served as chairman of the judicial committee of the Fulton Medical Society and is a member of the Medical Association of Georgia, the American Medical Association and a fellow of the American College of Surgeons.

Prohibitionists Adopt Militant Party Platform

Gubernatorial Candidate Boyd Challenges 'Professional Democrats.'

A revived Prohibition party met yesterday afternoon in the DeKalb court house, seat of the largest dry county in Georgia, and adopted a militant platform for its gubernatorial candidate, J. L. R. Boyd, of Decatur, and then completed its state ticket.

The 13-point platform endorsed the national party program against "the liquor traffic, commercialized gambling and indecent motion pictures," but adds a series of local questions headed by an advocacy that the "states expenditures be limited to funds that can be raised."

In his acceptance speech Boyd called upon "professional Democrats" to outline "a permanent plan of agrarian salvation where by the southern farmer can escape peasantry to industrial regions."

Hits Loan Agencies.

The platform calls for the chartering and state regulation of all loan agencies to "protect the needy against loan sharks," and that such enterprises should be charged as a public utility. There also is a section on public education which promises a minimum seven-month school term, with monthly pay for teachers and free textbooks "not to be bought with funds received from the sale of alcoholic beverages."

Boyd told the convention that his party expected Democratic and Republican candidates to explain "why at least half of the proposed billions for battleships and armaments should not be used to re-establish civilization on the farm and the relocation of starving city populations nearer sources and subsistence in this civilization."

National Committeeman.

Guest of the convention was Edward L. Blake, of Chicago, party national committeeman, who described the campaign progress of Roger W. Babson and Edgar V. Moorman, candidates for president and vice president.

A. F. Nace, of Decatur, was nominated for state superintendent of schools. His campaign, it was said, will be built on the desire that textbooks include the full story of prohibition. Other state candidates will be announced later by the executive committee.

'False Prophet' Charge Hurlled At Talmadge

Abit Nix, at Nashville, Attacks 'Policies' of Ex-Governor.

Georgia's four gubernatorial candidates stuck to their platforms and old lines of attack yesterday in speeches at Cedartown, Newnan, Buchanan, Nashville and Elberton.

Dipping into the tobacco belt, Abit Nix, of Athens, spoke at Nashville, calling Eugene Talmadge a "false prophet."

"You learned what the policies of this man can cost you in dollars and cents," he said. "If you listen to him again you're in for another sad experience." He told tobacco growers that Talmadge fed federal marketing quotas and his advice cost them "many millions of dollars."

Talmadge at Cedartown.

Taking the stump at Cedartown, the red-gallused Talmadge reminded his hearers he cut the state ad valorem tax 40 per cent when he was Governor, and that he left an eleven-million-dollar balance in the state treasury after paying off all state debts.

"I never made a campaign promise I haven't kept," he said, adding that he has always opposed higher taxes, and that present revenues are ample to finance the state government.

Roberts at Elberton.

Columbus Roberts, of Columbus, spoke at Elberton, while Hugh Howell, of Atlanta, talked at both Buchanan and Newnan. Both candidates scored "wastefulness" and set themselves up as able to institute economy and business methods.

Howell, as did Talmadge, criticized the Highway Department. Talmadge advocated "a fearless weeding out of unnecessary state Highway Department employees." Howell charged the present state administration with "spending millions of dollars over the last three and a half years for the purpose of paying political debts and hiring useless employees for political reasons."

Boykin Appeals Ruling on Usury

Ruling by Judge Paul S. Etheridge Sr., of Fulton superior court, that public nuisance laws do not cover usury was appealed yesterday to the state supreme court by attorneys acting for Solicitor General John A. Boykin.

Judge Etheridge, in the case of Boykin vs. the Ball Investment Company and the Ward Investment Company, denied the petition to enjoin the companies from operating on the grounds they constituted a public nuisance.

It was charged the companies collected as high as 240 per cent interest on small loans. City Attorney Jack Savage, James A. Branch, Thomas B. Branch Jr., and the firm of Lokey and Bowden represented the solicitor general in the suit.

Two Men Arrested After Auto Wreck

Two men were being held at Fulton Tower for investigation yesterday following an automobile wreck in which one of the men and a woman narrowly escaped serious injury, county police reported.

The men were listed as E. M. Enzor and Robert Clerk, alias Flock, while the woman was listed as Mrs. J. F. Stanley, of Mozley drive.

Officers reported Enzor was driving Mrs. Stanley's car when it overturned on a curve on Gordon road. Clerk was arrested on a charge of drunkenness while seated in a car on Mozley drive.

to permit construction of a $1,500,000 food terminal in Atlanta.

Frank G. Etheridge, member of the Atlanta Housing Authority, who has been assisting Philip Weltner in efforts to obtain a site for the huge market, said he would appeal to the mayor today after the zoning subcommittee of the city planning commission failed to muster a quorum to hear proponents and opponents yesterday afternoon.

About 75 persons crowded the committee room despite an announcement that the subcommittee could not obtain a quorum. Etheridge appealed to Robert G. Lose, chairman of the planning commission, to call a hearing Friday afternoon. Lose said he was willing to call the entire committee together for 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, August 28. Etheridge then said he would take his case to the mayor.

The controversy over locating the food terminal in Atlanta has raged in several sections of the city for the past several months, and no definite location has yet been decided upon.

Etheridge pointed out that options on some of the property would expire before council could act on the petition if a hearing is delayed until August 28, the date proposed by Lose.

Erb McGee said a petition bearing the names of more than 1,200 persons favoring the location for the market is ready and will be filed when the planning body meets.

Those present for the hearing yesterday afternoon passed by a vote of 36 to 16 a motion asking that a special hearing be set for tomorrow afternoon.

CHURCH HOMECOMING.

BARNESVILLE, Ga., Aug. 14.—The annual homecoming day for New Hebron Baptist church will be held Sunday. The Rev. E. A. Daniel, pastor, will preach. Special music will be a feature of the program. The Rev. J. W. Clark, a former pastor, will have charge of the afternoon program.

BLAZE IN LYONS.

LYONS, Ga., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Fire yesterday destroyed the bus terminal, a cafe and an automobile service building here. The Lyons fire department finally controlled the blaze and saved nearby structures threatened for a time.

Atlantan Is Concerned About Kin in Denmark

W. H. Edwards Jr., city sanitary engineer, yesterday expressed concern about his brother, Major J. Stanford Edwards, attached to the consular service in Denmark when the Germans swooped down on that country, because no word has been received from the major by Atlanta relatives.

"We have communicated with the State Department and done everything else we know to get some information as to my brother's whereabouts," Edwards said yesterday, "but so far we have heard nothing. I suppose if anything serious were wrong we would hear, but the suspense is growing more trying every day."

Japan and U. S. Greek Premier, Meet To Argue Army Meet on Police Control Italian Crisis

Seek Settlement of Dispute Over Control of Former British Sectors.

SHANGHAI, Thursday, Aug. 15. (UP)—The controversy between Japan and the United States regarding control of former British defense sectors of the International Settlement here was expected to come to a head at a conference of international military chiefs which opened at 10 o'clock this morning.

Rear Admiral Thomas Hart, commanding the United States Asiatic fleet, who was to have presided at the meeting, decided not to attend and designated Colonel Dewitt Peck, commanding the Fourth Regiment, United States Marines here, to act for him.

Admiral Hart arrived yesterday after a hurried dash from Tsingtao, Shantung province, where he has been with the fleet on summer exercises. He immediately assumed charge of the tangled settlement defense situation, which was thrown out of gear when Britain decided to withdraw her forces, and obtained Japanese consent to a transfer of today's meeting from Japanese naval headquarters to the offices of the municipal council in the British-American area of the settlement.

The Japanese apparently agreed, for the time, that Admiral Hart shall rank as senior officer of the international forces, but there was no indication they would withdraw their demand that they be given all the defense sectors formerly occupied by the British—including the vital waterfront area on the Whangpoo river, the only point in China at which American and other foreign traders can unload cargoes without Japanese supervision.

Hart saw Vice Admiral Marjia Takeda, Japanese naval commander, last night, it was understood, and suggested a compromise solution under which United States Marines would be awarded some of the former British sectors, including the waterfront area, while Japanese would take over the remainder.

Fulton Board Seeks Federal Cotton Stamps

Commission Authorizes Trip to Washington for Conference.

First move to obtain the federal "cotton stamp plan" for Fulton county was taken yesterday by the county commissioners upon motion of Commissioner Gler Hale.

The commission authorized Hale and Albert Gossett, acting chairman of the welfare board, to go to Washington to confer with federal officials there relative to installing the new plan here.

The cotton stamp plan, similar to the food stamp plan, is designed to increase the use of cotton. Stamps are issued by the Department of Agriculture which can be used to purchase any cotton garment or goods in registered stores.

Hale said the cotton plan would cost the country nothing to administer since the personnel of the food stamp plan could issue the stamps to relief clients at the same time food stamps are distributed.

"There have been only three cotton stamp plans inaugurated in the United States," Hale told the commission. "It would mean a great deal to Atlanta and Fulton county if we can obtain the fourth organization here."

Longest Court Trial In U. S. History Ends

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Testimony in the longest court trial in American history—court attaches so termed it—ended today after 160 witnesses had piled up records covering 32 feet of shelf space in two years and six weeks.

It was the government's anti-trust suit against the Aluminum Company of America and affiliates—a trial which brought many millionaire industrial leaders to the federal courtroom. Judge Francis G. Caffey fixed December 2 for filing of briefs and January 16 for reply briefs. Final arguments will be heard at a later date, not yet set.

Two Children Are Killed As Landslide Hits Home

BANNER ELK, N. C., Aug. 14.—(AP)—A mountain landslide caused by heavy rainfall engulfed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bynum Shoemaker near here last night, killing two children, one nine years old and the other 18 months old.

The mother and two other children were brought here to a hospital with serious injuries. Their ages were four and 11.

The slide carried the home 300 yards from its foundation.

Sally Firth

SAYS

Alice Gray Harrison To Play Classical Music Next Sunday

• • • A FORTUNATE GROUP of Atlantans will have the pleasure of hearing an enjoyable program of classical music on Sunday evening when they assemble at the Woodward way residence of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lee Edwards. The "star" of the evening will be that talented young Atlantian, Alice Gray Harrison, who has chosen this method of presenting varied selections of classical piano music for her friends.

The gifted musician, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Harrison, has made quite a name for herself in the world of music, and rather than confine her talent to her own personal enjoyment, each year she gives a series of selections at an affair destined partly as a social gathering.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwards offered their lovely home for the cultural and social event, and close friends of Alice Gray and Mr. and Mrs. Edwards will assemble for the musical evening, to be followed by a buffet supper. Alice Gray has chosen selections from such beloved composers as Mozart, Chopin, De Bussy, and a group of modern composers.

Assisting in entertaining will be Mrs. C. E. Harrison, Mrs. David Gammage and Mrs. James Henderson, the former Edith Harrison.

• • • WHEN Louise St. John, of Athens, becomes the bride of Howard Doyle, of East Face's Ferry road, at the First Methodist church in Athens on August 31, she will receive the wedding band which belonged to Howard's paternal great-grandmother, the late Mrs. William Hayes, of North Carolina. Louise will carry a white satin prayer book which was given her by Rev. and Mrs. John Tate, of Barnesville, several years ago. The Rev. Tate was director of the Wesley Foundation at the University of Georgia when Howard and Louise attended that institution, and he will perform the ceremony at 5:30 in the afternoon of August 31.

The future bride and groom have two pieces of furniture which they will use when they make their home here in Atlanta. One is the cedar chest which Howard gave Louise after they became engaged, and the other is one which was made by Louise's maternal grandfather, the late Benjamin Hill, of Atlanta, and presented to Mary Louise Elam when she became his wife in 1877.

A sentimental addition to Louise's hope chest is a pair of linen pillow cases which came from England, and were given to Howard's mother, Mrs. G. Harris Doyle, when the groom-elect was born.

• • • THE SUBTLETY of "Birdie," Mrs. J. W. McQueen's expert cook, will long be remembered by both her mistress and Sally Firth.

Recently Mrs. McQueen, who is the former Sally Fiske Lindsay, of Decatur, entertained at her charming Brunswick home honoring Mary McDonald and Marvin Sledd prior to their marriage.

As a number of the guests were very intimate friends of the hostess, they felt no hesitancy in entering the kitchen and lending their able assistance to the apparently overworked maid.

At the conclusion of their activities, they were preparing to leave when they happened to glimpse the towel rack on which "Birdie" was arranging fresh linens which she had selected with great care from a drawer. Embroidered in bright red across the borders of the towels were the words, "Too many cooks spoil the broth."

The guests "got" the idea, and it is a safe bet that "Birdie" will

Camp Fire Girls Hold Reunion

Atlanta Camp Fire Girls will participate in their annual Camp Toccoa and city summer activities reunion at the Avondale swimming pool on Thursday at 9:45 o'clock. Girls will carry lunches and enjoy swimming. Camp counselors for the current season at Camp Toccoa are invited to attend the reunion. The program, to be held at the pool, will be directed by Mrs. Virginia Beals, executive secretary.

On Wednesday, August 14, the board of directors for the Atlanta Council of Camp Fire Girls meet at 12:30 o'clock in Davison-Paxon's tearoom. The president, W. J. Sayward, will preside. A report on the summer activities will be given by Miss Capitola B. Mattingly, field secretary and director of these activities. Miss Mattingly will report an increased attendance over last summer and a growing enthusiasm for the kind of program made possible to Camp Fire Girls during the summer months.

Mrs. Virginia W. Beals, who directed a successful season at Camp Toccoa, will report on activities. Members of the board of directors are urged to attend and hear these reports. A grand council fire on August 22 will conclude the summer activities.

not soon again be troubled with too much assistance.

• • • SALLY FORTH was interested to note during her very recent trip to New York the patriotism displayed at practically every public gathering by the solemn singing of the "Star Spangled Banner," with the audience standing to sing the national anthem. . . . The return of beaver fur for fall hats, mammoth ones of brilliant hues being featured in Fifth avenue shop windows. . . . The remarkable precision and grace of the stars of Billy Rose's Aquacade. . . . The methodical system by which the fair is managed to avoid confusion. . . . The amazing speed of every-day traffic. . . . The beauty of the newly opened East River drive. . . . The enthusiasm shown by the college contingent for the La Conga. . . . The popularity of the new song hit, "I'll Never Smile Again." . . . The beauty and talent of Zorina, star of the delightful stage show, "Louisiana Purchase." . . . The lavishness of night-club decorations. . . . The sparkle which Ethel Merman gives her lines in the risqué hit, "DuBarry Was a Lady." . . . The introduction of tortoise shell and natural wood belts for fall. . . . The keen interest shown in national politics, which is frequently punctuated by the question, "Who is the south's choice for President?"

Miss Gene Loeb Wilensky is betrothed to Harry Solomon, of Chicago, Ill., and Atlanta, her engagement being announced today by Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Harris Wilensky, parents of the bride-elect, and the date of the marriage will be announced later.

Gala Social Affairs Given For Visitor and Bride-Elect

The social calendar is enlivened by the interesting parties being given in compliment to Mrs. Louis Bell, of Hingham, Mass., an attractive visitor here, and Miss Rozelle Emery, lovely fiancée of Leon Roscoe Walker Jr.

Honoring Mrs. Bell was the buffet luncheon at which Mrs. Calhoun McDougall entertained yesterday at her home on West Andrews drive. Mrs. Bell is the guest of her sister, Mrs. B. M. McFayden on The Prado, and is being honored at numerous social affairs. A profusion of garden flowers adorned the home for the occasion.

Mrs. Catts To Give Party For Mother

Mrs. Gordon Catts, who before her recent marriage was Miss Frances Austin, gives a tea on August 21, as a complimentary gesture to Mrs. James W. Austin, her mother. The hostess entertains at her home at 64 Westminster drive in Ansley Park, into which she moves tomorrow.

Guests are invited from 4:30 to 6:30 o'clock, and the list includes Mesdames Homer Carmichael, Benjamin Willingham, John Mount, Wharton O. Mitchell, A. H. Sterne, Cone Maddox, Thomas Beachamp, Elijah Brown, Poole Maynard, John Boykin, William L. Finkhouser, Clifford Carroll and Miss Annie Lou Hardy.

Miss Lester Weds John B. Rainwater.

The marriage of Miss Letha Amanda Lester, daughter of W. H. Lester, and John Bernard Rainwater, son of J. B. Rainwater, was solemnized last evening at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride on Colquitt avenue. Rev. Samuel A. Cowan performed the ceremony and a program of music was presented by Miss Aileen Cheshire, pianist, and Miss Mozelle Owensby, vocalist.

The improvised altar in the living room was banked with palms and ferns and interspersed with white gladioli and roses. Miss Jewel Guthrie, maid of honor, was gowned in navy blue and white sheer with which she wore navy accessories and a shoulder spray of American Beauty roses.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and they were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Ernest Silvey. She was gowned in navy blue alpaca with which she wore matching accessories and a shoulder bouquet of valley lilies and sweetheart roses. Her only ornament was a string of pearls.

Mr. Rainwater and his bride left for a wedding trip to the Blue Ridge mountains of Georgia and North Carolina and upon their return they will reside in Atlanta. Assisting at the wedding were Miss Teddy Southall and Miss Gwen Todd, who kept the bride's book.

Miniature Exhibits Shown at Center

The exhibit of miniature arrangements this month is of interest and many have recently been displayed at the Garden Center by the garden clubs. A dainty one, arranged by Mrs. Herbert Whitlow for the Emorydale Garden Club, was composed of Cecile Brunner rosebuds and delicate ferns in an ash tray.

A pair of tiny Dresden slippers filled with miniature pastel flowers was the entry of Mrs. R. A. McKay, of the Flower Study Club, while Mrs. R. F. Sams Jr. combined tiny roses and gypsophila in a blue pottery pitcher for the Magnolia Club. A charming arrangement in a Chinese soapstone container was entered for the Habersham Garden Club by Mrs. W. W. Anderson the materials used were small purple asters, foliage and slender spikes of ophiopogon.

Mrs. G. E. McWhite and Mrs. W. O. Martin chose an interesting Satsuma vase to hold their arrangement for the Atkins Park Garden Club—the flowers and gray foliage repeating the soft colors of the container.

A picture was created by Mrs. George A. Bland Jr., of the Colonial Garden Club, who placed a small amber bowl of dwarf marigolds and forget-me-nots in oval frame.

A yellow corn cob pipe holding three gay rubeckia blossoms and other foliage composed the clever exhibit of Mrs. J. W. Huey and Mrs. Harvie Perkins for the Camellia Garden Club.

For the College Park division Mrs. Ray Dodson selected a small footed bowl to hold an arrangement of Cecile Brunner roses and buds with a touch of violet for accent.

No Woman Is Too Busy To Do Three Exercises a Day-- They Will Save Her Figure

By IDA JEAN KAIN.

From now on, you can't call it a day until you have taken a few exercises. Here I've been warning you against exercise early in the morning or late at night--and probably those were the only times you could find to do your daily half dozen. So you've had a perfect alibi!

That early morning exercise ban really wasn't intended for you. It applies to the highly strung nervous girls who need slowing down, not speeding up, and must learn to ease into their day's activity. The only real objection to you reducers taking your workout then is that you may not have the time to do a thorough job--but better a few hurried exercises than none at all! And, there's the chance that if you get into the habit of exercise before breakfast you will allow five to ten minutes in which to do your figure a good turn.

Since exercise is a stimulant, it is certainly not a good plan to comp through thirty minutes of calisthenics just before retiring. A vigorous work-out will wake you up, not lull you to sleep. But if you haven't taken any exercise during the day, then you'd jolly well better take a few of the less strenuous variety.

Here are three which may be used either night or morning for they will wake you up gently or relax you for slumber:

Position: Lying on the back on the floor, legs straight down, arms down at sides.

Movement: Cross the right leg over the left, touching toes to floor at far side, as you stretch right arm up on floor high overhead. Stretch and relax, then stretch the other side. Perform slowly, eight counts in all, relaxing between.

Position: Lying on back on floor, arms straight out on floor at the sides shoulder-level, knees flexed and feet on floor close to buttocks.

Movement: Keeping arms and shoulders on the floor, twist at the waist to one side, pointing knees down hard. Back to position, and twist to the other side. After twisting at the waist to both sides, rest for a second in starting position and pull up and in with the lower abdominal muscles, pressing the small of the back flat against the floor, then continue the exercise.

Position: Lying face downward on the floor, head resting on folded arms, legs straight down.

Movement: Tensing the muscles of the buttocks, raise alternate legs as high in the air as possible. Hold, lower. Repeat twelve counts, relaxing between movements.

These three simple exercises very effectively tone the muscles of the waistline, abdomen and hips. Done night or morning they will save your figure--but for special streamlining, make it ten minutes night and morning.

MY DAY: Some Day I'll Be A Housewife Again

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

HYDE PARK, Tuesday.—I looked at the moon last night as I drove home and later, while I sat on my porch, I could not help thinking of what its beauty means to us, and in contrast what horror its bright light means for England. It is this week, I imagine, that a landing must be made by the Germans or the attack must be put off for some time.

So, as we read of constantly renewed flights over various parts of England, we can only hope that that bad weather will envelope the British Isles and those traditional English fogs will be worse than they ever have been before. They are perhaps the best protection that Great Britain can have outside of her fighting air force, which seems to be acquitting itself extremely well.

I cannot help but think of ruined houses and countryside in terms of people whom I know. Having members of your family and friends in various parts of England, Scotland and Ireland makes bombing raids which victimize civilians a much more personal thing than if you could simply sympathize with unknown men, women and children.

I spent most of the day yesterday working with Miss Thompson and playing probably more than I should, considering the work that ought to be done. A young man dropped in for lunch who is in the National Park Service and who had brought an engineer and some workmen from the CCC camp in his park down to work on the Vanderbilt estate. When these places are taken over by the park service, it takes some time to put them in order. In the case of this estate, no one has lived there for the past few years and the gardens and greenhouses which require constant keeping up had, of course, greatly deteriorated. I imagine that gradually they will come back to their former beauty. Then visitors will not only see the house itself, surrounded by a collection of variegated trees which cannot be equaled anywhere else up or down the Hudson River valley, but they will enjoy the beautiful gardens which have been developed by three different generations of owners.

We all dined with Secretary and Mrs. Morgenthau at their farm last night, and ate some of the most delicious string beans, which they had grown in quantity for the market this year, and the very last raspberries of the summer. Secretary Wallace presented some of his specially developed corn to both the Morgenthaus and to us for our gardens, and we decided that it is about the best corn we have ever eaten.

It is curious, however. Living in the country you take more interest in food that actually comes out of your own or your neighbor's garden. Some day I am going to be a housewife again and really boast about stocking my house in summer for winter use, and feel whenever I give a jar of preserves away that I am really giving something into which I have put some personal effort.

Today's Charm Tip

Just listening is not enough to charm. Being an animated listener, with interested facial expression, is what makes your talking partner think you're charming.

A Slenderizing Bolero Ensemble

By Lillian Mae.

There's a gracious "leading lady" look about this frock and bolero, Pattern 4442 by Lillian Mae. You'll start off the fall season by wearing the ensemble, with the tailored, long-sleeved bolero, as a street outfit. Later, you'll wear the dress alone under your coat. Just see those well-balanced lines! The front skirt panel gives slim flattery. The simple bodice is shirred or gathered at the shoulders and darted above the waist to keep its easy fullness in place. A row of tiny buttons from the V-neck to the waist creates nice up-and-down lines. A gay idea is to contrast the rounded revers of the jacket to match the dress. Let the sewing instructor help you finish quickly.

Pattern 4442 is available in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36, dress, takes 3 1/2 yards 36-inch fabric. Bolero, 1 5/8 yards.

Every Human Should Learn Tolerance

By Caroline Chatfield.

"The Divinity that shapes our ends" evidently decrees that the last one of us shall learn tolerance in this life. Sympathy, if you will, with the other fellow's point of view, his struggles, his stumblings and fallings, his lamentable failures to come up to his ideals. The Divinity furnishes us ample opportunity to learn by observation and if we don't learn in this way, we are usually furnished ample opportunity to learn by experience.

This is why so many of us go through life eating our own words. We start out bravely saying what we will and will not do and we don't hesitate to lampoon our friends who fall to see our mark. We have fine health and we are impatient and critical of the ailing who always want to tell us about their aches and pains, their sleepless nights and wretched days. Not until we come down with a headache do we understand that a personal pain takes precedence over everything in life, that nothing matters but the pain and no subject is worthy of conversation except how much we suffer and what we can do to ease it.

We are sober and we can't sympathize with the weak brothers and sisters who fall off the wagon until we get one of the bottle suckers in our family. We are affluent with enough and to spare and we are utterly contemptuous of those who can't make ends meet, of those who don't pay their bills on time. No character, no pride, we say, and not until we come to the edge of the precipice do we realize what they've been up against.

We are poor and we snarl at the rich for their extravagances, for their failure to give generously, and not until we walk in their shoes do we comprehend the fact that riches, as poverty, create problems and are likely to take their toll of character. We see the neighbors' children being pampered and spoiled, the boys loafing when we think they should be working, the girls dating when we think they should be playing dolls, and we look pious and deplore the weakness of the parents who permit such goings on. Then along come our children and we repeat the same mistakes, enlarging on them and multiplying them. A mother remarked the other day that a few years ago when she saw the daughters of an older friend dancing at a club in what seemed to her a disgusting fashion, she had said she'd rather see her child dead than behaving that way. "Now," she said, "look at my child. Why, the dancing of that day seems positively modest by comparison."

Haven't we all eaten many an unpalatable meal of our own words and almost choked to death as we swallowed them? CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

POINTS FOR PARENTS

Tactful Words Are a Help

A puzzle to the Misses Chatterbox--how the quiet newcomer attracts the handsomest man in the place.

But a girl doesn't have to talk a lot to make friends. To say the right thing at the right moment is far more important--and you can win with a stock of winning phrases. Meeting a new man, the clever girl fishes for his interests with "Did you see the tennis tournament yesterday?" or "Are you a bookworm, too?" And as the conversation runs along, she lets him see that she values his opinion with "What do you think about that?" "What an interesting viewpoint."

And how a girl's popularity score goes up when she knows the phrases that put people in kindly mood. She tells an acquaintance, "It's good to see you again." The man who's sent her flowers she thanks warmly: "How did you know gardenias were my favorite flower?" She wins her hostess' gratitude with "I'm having such a wonderful time."

Then, if she knows the soft answer that turneth away wrath, how gracious she appears. If an argument arises, she doesn't say brusquely "You're wrong"--but "Perhaps I didn't understand." If she's the cause of a mishap she avoids a sharp "sorry," says instead "It's all my fault."

And by spicing her conversation with colorful word combinations she gives it life and charm. Talk with ease and charm wherever you are! Our 40-page booklet, 1500 USEFUL PHRASES, has hundreds of effective phrases for social and business use, convenient lists of lively word combinations to make your conversation click.

Colleges Could Graduate Doctors Who Limit Practice To Prevention-- If It Paid!

By Dr. William Brady.

The other day a news story told of a gentleman now 91 years old who, at age 77, had invested his entire fortune in an annuity, and now spends the annual income from his annuity to aid young people who are struggling to get the necessary college or university training to fit them for a profession. The gentleman retains for his own living expenses only about $300 a year. From the news story it would seem that he had no dependents and therefore only his own simple needs to provide for.

Of course I don't know as yet just how it feels to be 77, but I should imagine it must be pretty sad to have no one to love, no child, grandchild or great grandchild, nobody to favor, help or encourage, only yourself to think about. For anyone so unfortunate as that, the arrangement of the gentleman described would seem a happy solution. For, no matter how you invest, gamble or squander it, the money that buys the greatest joy or happiness is the money you give to individuals or organizations that can make the best use of it. Especially so, when you deliberately deny yourself some luxury or comfort in order to make your contribution the more substantial. That old gentleman, chuckling over the way he won his bet with the insurance company, is enjoying life in a way too many old curmudgeons never have dreamed of, and he looks forward eagerly to his first centennial.

Now my secret ambition is to become a real specialist. I'd like to conduct a practice limited to prophylaxis. That would be out of the question if one must live by his profession. In the first place, only an occasional layman has a clear idea of the meaning of prophylaxis. In the second place, not one layman in a thousand (my estimate) today is willing to pay for the personal service of a qualified prophylactor (my term for the doctor of preventive medicine who limits his practice to prevention of disease)--incidentally doctor of preventive medicine is my invention or suggestion of a degree a forward-looking university might offer to graduate doctors of medicine who successfully complete a postgraduate course of a year or two in preventive medicine and hygiene.

With the right kind of encouragement, appreciation of the value of an ounce of prevention might develop into a demand for the services of the qualified prophylactor. I'd have a go at it anyway, if I had only myself to think of. As it is, I can only offer a suggestion which may interest someone who is interested in elevating the health standard of the country. My suggestion is that such postgraduate courses in preventive medicine and hygiene leading to the degree of doctor of preventive medicine should be endowed, and physicians who complete these should be subsidized for five years or so in practice, until it becomes possible for the qualified prophylactor to support himself by practice limited to hygiene and prevention.

Besse Gives Up Only Five Hits as Crackers Defeat Lookouts, 3 to 1

All in the Game

BY JACK TROY

That Issue Again One of the real issues of any gubernatorial campaign is wildlife—and quite naturally so. Those who hunt and fish in Georgia are considerable. Combined they probably include a quarter of a million folks, taking in the landowners, too. Naturally, a fair number of so many folks vote. Hence wildlife is no minor matter in election years. And maybe it is not, as some folks think, only minor after elections. You never can tell.

At any rate, if a writer wants to determine how seriously candidates regard the matter, all he has to do is write something about it. He'll soon find out. Herman Talmadge goes to bat for his papa, Eugene, in the following communique—

"Dear Jack: "I notice from this morning's 'All in the Game' column the following: 'So far as I know, Columbus Roberts, of Columbus, Ga., is the first gubernatorial candidate who has made any definite expressions as to what he would do about the wildlife department, if elected.' "In the campaign opening speech of my father, Eugene Talmadge, at Albany, Ga., on July 4, he said:

"What is now to be done in Georgia, and should deserve special consideration? It is our natural resources. "Georgia, with her mountains in the north, her Piedmont region and coastal plains to the south, her long expanse of seashore. Oh, it is a pity how the deer and the quail and fish that accumulated a few years ago have been wasted and thrown away by the present administration. "We will start anew, without any additional expense, and build back."

"Since that first speech of the campaign, my father has consistently presented to the people in the various sections of Georgia his realization of the need for something to be done to restore our animal, bird and fish life, and has in no uncertain terms pledged himself to carry on Georgia's wildlife conservation work with renewed emphasis. "If you recall, during my father's two administrations, the State Game and Fish Department was taken over by Mr. Zack D. Cravey as commissioner, and he carried on to the general satisfaction of the public and sportsmen and landowners the excellent program initiated by his predecessors in that office.

"Also, if you recall, when my father went into office as governor in 1933 the term of the incumbent game and fish commissioner, Mr. Peter S. Twitty, had one year to run. Eugene Talmadge made no effort to interfere with the term of Mr. Twitty, but allowed it to expire in 1934; whereupon he appointed Mr. Cravey as Mr. Twitty's successor.

"If anyone has made of the wildlife work a political football, it was the present administration, which, in 1937, while Mr. Cravey's term as commissioner had one year to run, reorganized the department by legislative act for the sole purpose of getting rid of Mr. Cravey and thereby brought an abrupt end to his program.

"If you remember, the new administration in the wildlife department allowed Georgia's carefully built system of fish hatcheries and game farms to lie abandoned for a considerable period of time, while the lack of initiative in the department on the part of Mr. Cravey's successor caused all conservation work to languish. It is only in comparatively recent months that any change has been made and any serious effort begun to pull the department out of the lethargy into which it had declined after Mr. Cravey was legislated out of office.

"I hope you will see, from these facts, that my father is intensely interested in Georgia's wildlife work and will do everything within his power as governor to see that the conservation and enforcement work proceeds as Georgians desire it to do.

"Yours sincerely,

"HERMAN TALMADGE."

Crackers Gain Those Crackers may, or may not, gain on Nashville to the extent of winning a pennant this season, but they have gained greatly in young player talent for next season.

It is most unusual that nine young players out on option are considered good enough to recall for next season. An entire infield is included.

Counting also the seven or eight players the Crackers will select from Waycross and Savannah under working agreements, there won't be much necessity for Mister Earl Mann to go into the open market for talent for next season.

There will be a good nucleus left from the current team and the additions should give Atlanta a mighty nine.

Crack Infield It is not certain that they will be retained as a unit, but an infield of Tommy O'Brien, third base; Frank Haggerty, shortstop; Connie Ryan, second base, and Pat Petrino, first base, wouldn't be bad. O'Brien has been with Anniston, Haggerty with Selma, Ryan with Savannah and Petrino with Gainesville, Fla. All have been good good.

Two excellent catchers include Larry (Doc) Smith, who has been with Macon, and Sal Ferrara, who played with Selma.

The remaining three boys are pitchers, all good prospects. They are T. J. Bankston and Rene Cortes, with Charleston, and Ulysses Wattigny, who worked for New Bern, N. C.

Actually, the Crackers are ready for 1941 a year ahead of time. Which is SOMETHING.

Burge Homers On First Pitch In 6th Inning

Anderson, Besse Triple; Richards Catches Bol-yard Off Second.

By WIRT GAMMON.

ENGEL STADIUM, Chattanooga, Tenn., Aug. 14.—Herman Besse's fine five-hit pitching and a display of miserable base running by the Lookouts combined to give the Crackers a 3-to-1 victory over the Lookouts tonight—Chattanooga's eighth straight loss.

At times walks and errors handicapped Besse, who had won one and lost two since returning from the Athletics. But the Lookouts failed to take advantage of them.

Single tallies in the first and second proved to be enough for Atlanta, when Cotton Goodell was doubled off first, costing a run outright. The indecision of Rufe Hooks at third on a hit to short center cost another, and then what chance was left was snuffed out by a smart pitchout and throw to Paul Richards in the fourth, wiping Paul Bolyard off when Chattanooga had two men on, and no one out, one run behind.

Lester Burge came along in the sixth with a mighty home run over the right field fence for the final tally. Besse was not in serious trouble after that. Meanwhile Dick Bass pitched good ball.

ANDERSON TRIPLES. Atlanta scored one in the first inning on Anderson's triple to center and Malibo's fly to center. Bates and Hill then singled, and Burge walked, but Bass pulled out without damage by retiring Glock for the third out.

Chattanooga tied it in its half. Olson walked and stole second. Letchas walked, Chapman forced Letchas at second, Olson taking third. Goodell grounded to Glock, who booted the double play ball, Olson scoring and Chapman going to third. Bolyard flied to right-center and Bates scooted over and into a good running catch of it, with Goodell far off first. Chapman tagged up at third and came in easily, but Bates' throw beat Goodell back to first before Chapman crossed the plate, thus costing Chattanooga a run.

RICHARDS TRICKS 'EM. Atlanta went ahead in the second. With one away Besse tripled to left, Goodell singled and the wet grass as the ball bounced far to the side, Anderson walked. Malibo bounded to Letchas (the infield was in close) and Charley fired to the plate to retire Besse there. Anderson went to second on the play and raced home when Bates singled to right.

Chattanooga had a scoring chance in the second and fumbled it. R. Hooks singled to right and A. Hooks sent him to second with a single between first and second, Glock knocking it down by a fine effort. McDaniel sacrificed the runners down. Bass hit a Texas leaguer to short center. R. Hooks, on third, held up. The throw sailed on home, and Richards' whipped to second in an effort to get A. Hooks, over-running second, but the throw was high to the right. At that moment, Cuyler sent Rufe hustling home. He was out at the plate by about a foot.

Things looked good for the Lookouts in the fourth when Bolyard walked, went to second on a wild pitch, and R. Hooks walked. But with A. Hooks up bunting and the count one strike and no balls, Richards called for a pitch-out. Anderson planted himself on second, and Richards' perfect whip to second wiped out Bolyard. Then A. Hooks' hunt forced R. Hooks and McDaniel struck out.

BURGE HOMERS. Burge's Bass' first pitch over the right-field fence opening the sixth inning. That made the score 3 to 1. Chattanooga got the first two men on base in the sixth when Luce got a pinch-hit single and Bolyard lived on an error. But R. Hooks fouled two bunts, Cuyler took his last strike and hit an infield fly to second. Besse came out of the hole then by fanning A. Hooks on a wide curve and causing McDaniel to sky to center.

Punch-Drunk Fighters. Not Any---Leonard

By THAD HOLT.

Jack Dempsey's favorite joke is the one about the little prize fighter who beat his wife every day for 20 years.

Finally, she decided to stand up for her rights. She had friend husband arrested, limped on the stand, eyes black, lips puffed, and demanded the judge how terribly she had been treated—through the years.

"What do you say to your wife's charges?" demanded the judge, eyeing the prize fighter sternly.

"Aw don't pay no attention to her, judge," the fighter said, "she's punch drunk."

Benny Leonard, greatest lightweight champion of all time, joined in the laughter that followed, and then he said:

"Nearly every day of my life I have heard people refer to punch-drunk fighters. I contend there has never been any such animal."

"They don't get punch-drunk in the ring. If they're punchy they're that way before they started fighting."

"Now you take Tony Galento. He throws a mug of beer at some customer in his bar he is excused as a stormy, unique character. But wait five years until he has definitely put away his gloves and let him do the same thing. They'll say—look—see 'that punch-drunk palooka. He used to be a pretty tough fighter.'"

"And how about Max Baer? He threw away his chances to be one of the greatest fighters of his time. He does the things a few years hence that he is doing now some folks will try to send him to the bag house."

"I remember when Kingfish Levinsky, the fish peddler, was the toast of Chicago. Often he was a guest at big parties, attended by many of the socialites. The Kingfish ate with his knife. 'Look at Levinsky,' they said. 'Isn't that cute.' Today he does the same things, but now he's a bum."

"Nope, they don't get punch-drunk. Those who are slow up-stairs never had any brains to start with. Make a check of the type of boys who go into boxing. A great number of them never went through grammar school. They contract diseases, pay no attention to keeping fit, fight when out of condition, keep bad company, throw away their money, wind up near the bread line."

Leonard agrees that an excessive amount of blows about the head don't help the brain to function.

"But," Benny came back, "a boy who is smart isn't going to be made a punching bag. He's going to learn something about the art of self-defense before he starts out in the professional game. And he isn't going to get hurt often enough ever to go around walking on his heels."

Pete Barnes' 71 Wins Medal In City Meet

Dan Gottesman Places Second, With 73; Joe Horacek Shoots 74.

By AL SHARP.

Pete Barnes shrugged aside a bushel of trouble during the stretch yesterday to take the medal in the city amateur golf tournament with even par. His score of 36-35—71, which reads like the card for East Lake No. 1, paced the field of 100 entrants by two shots.

East Lake's team won the title in the city golf tournament yesterday, with 306. Dewey Bowen, who lost three shots on the last three holes to finish with a 75, and Scott Hudson Jr. with 35-40—75, led the winners. Billy Street and Ralph McClelland Jr. both 78's. Dr. Hills was second at 321 and Capital City next at 322.

Barnes, who had five birdies on his card, came out of a trap for a bogey 5 at the sixteenth hole, repeated the trap shot at the seventeenth and sank a 20-foot putt for a par, and then sent a nice wood shot hooking into the eighteenth green to clinch a par 3 and the medal. This member of the famous golfing brothers got his first two birdies with two-foot putts, dropped a six-footer at the ninth, a 40-footer at No. 12, and chipped dead to the pin at the fifteenth. His card:

Par out: 434 453 445—38
Barnes: 424 443 444—71
Par in: 434 445 443—71
Barnes: 433 444 443—71

Gottesman, second place, won the second prize, a Duke University golf team member, whose 36-37—73 stood up for hours while the wind played tricks with favored players' scores.

Gottesman Second. Close on Gottesman's heels was Joe Horacek at 74, followed by several entrants at 75, including Dewey Bowen (Old Folks') Bowen, who was out to prove the youngsters can't handle the veterans. Charles Black Jr., and Scott Hudson Jr., both former champions, had 75's.

Also listed at 75 was Gene Dahlbender Jr., who four-putted the first green and three-putted three others to offset the advantage gained with drives up to 350 yards.

Dahlbender was hitting his drives better than ever, being home or hole-high with a three iron at the fifth and ninth and with a four iron at the fifteenth—the three par 5 holes. One of his drives split a headwind for 275. With the aid of the wind at the fifth his tee shot stopped right at 350 yards down the fairway.

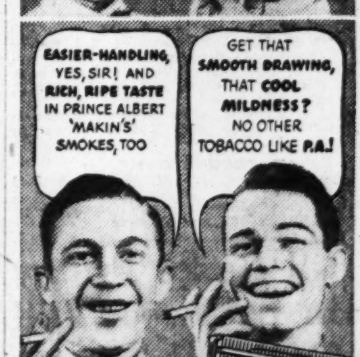

Dr. Julius Hughes turned in a creditable 76 in spite of his split left thumb, which is still swollen. Dave Black, like Hughes, another former winner, chalked up a 79.

Dannals Not Entered. Charlie Dannals, defending champion, again changed his mind and decided not to play. He has been suffering from sacroiliac trouble. Tommy Barnes, runner-up last year, was out of the city and did not enter, leaving the title wide open.

It took an 82 to make the championship division of 32 players. A play-off of seven entrants for six places was scheduled, but it was called off when it was learned that Bill Johnson, one of the 82-shooters, was not available.

One match is slated today, with the championship division starting at 1:15 o'clock. Officers will be elected at a meeting of the Atlanta Golf Association tonight at 6:30 o'clock.

LUCKY FOR LOVE

The Beauty Winner Is Angered When Her Sister Wins a Prize

By JANE DIXON.

SYNOPSIS.
Clara Marsh, vain and very conscious of her blond good looks and good figure, is voted the winner of a Beauty Contest, promoted by the Metropolitan Amusement Corporation of New York, which attracted entries from six rural counties. She is so overcome that she can scarcely speak when she is introduced on the stage of Millville's Bijou Theater by Al Martino, Metropolitan's sleek-haired representative, but soon she is preening before the cracked mirror in the star's dressing room. The prize is a ten-day trip to New York, all expenses paid, sight-seeing included, for the winner and a chaperon. Clara is still posing before the mirror when her timid mother calls to congratulate her, but Clara sends her away with a suitcase, heavy with her "properties." In the hope that Martino will ask her out for a bite, she merely instructs her to report the next day to make final arrangements. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT II

"Hi, lovely!" Marilyn called gaily. "Congratulations! I hear you've brought fame to the family."

"Thanks," Clara swished her skirts beyond the reach of an encroaching lilac bush. "Why doesn't somebody cut these darn things back were they belong. And why can't a fix that gate—it's been hanging on one hinge for months, this place is a disgrace. How you can expect me to make anything of myself, living in a—a—"

"Aw, give it a bone, Big Stuff, will ya?" William Marsh Jr., the redheaded boy with the freckles, kicked loose gravel off the toe of his shoe. "You ain't Hedy Lamarr—not yet. Mom, can I have some cookies?"

"Yes, son." The mother welcomed an appetite that swung attention away from Clara's complaints. "You'll find them in the jar on the pantry shelf. I baked them this morning—molasses."

"Gee, mom, that's swell!" The boy dove into the house, leaving the door to slam sharply behind him. "You'd think a boy of his age would have some manners," Clara gave a theatrical shudder. "My nerves are a wreck, all those rights in the theater, the strain, the applause—and now that boy."

The senior Marsh interrupted with a chuckle. "Bill's all right, Clara girl," he said in his ghost of a voice. "Just a healthy colt." "That's what you think," Clara judged, should go with this line. "If you'd take the trouble to correct him once in a while, to give him a good healthy tanning, he might not turn to be a—a—pest!"

"Whose a pest?" Bill demanded, bursting from the house in a whirl of flying arms and legs. "Ya pest yourself. If I was given prizes I'd give you the Nitwit prize. Nitwit! Hey, sis, to Marilyn, who was trying to close her ears against the familiar family jangle, 'I forgot to give you this. A boy brought it after you left for the store this noon. Bill dug into the pocket of his blouse and brought forth a crumpled yellow envelope. 'I had a size, you name so's he'd leave it with me.'"

"It's a—a—why it's a telegram," Marilyn stared with unbelieving eyes. "A mistake, of course," Clara stretched forth her hand for the message. "Some one got our names mixed. I've had oodles of messages from admirers, wishing me luck in the contest."

"It's addressed to me," Marilyn tore open the envelope, glanced hurriedly at the words typed on the yellow paper. Glanced, re-read slowly, then tossed sheet and envelope high above her head in an abandon of joy.

"Mums, Dad!" she sang. "I won. I won. I won!" Mrs. Marsh was frightened by the intensity of that cry. "Now baby," she soothed, "don't act so. I'll get you a nice glass of lemonade. All this excitement about Clara has been too much for us. It was Clara who won the beauty contest, baby."

"Sure, Mums, Clara won the beauty contest and I won the Jingle Jubilee—one thousand dollars for the best last line to a jingle about Clarco—America's super soap flakes."

Mrs. Marsh could no more than whisper, "A thousand dollars. A thousand dollars! Baby! It can't be."

Mr. Marsh fumbled with a lapel of his wrinkled cotton coat. "Poetry," he murmured. "My little girl wins a poetry prize. She was always making up rhymes, even when she was a teeny tot. A poet!"

Young Bill Marsh went galloping in circles, giving out a series of shrill noises. "Yi yip yi. 'Ride 'em cowboy.' 'Toot, toot yee-e-p!' Between circlings he stopped long enough to yell: 'Hey, Sis, read it again. Maybe you made a mistake. Make it a thousand pennies. Oh boy, have you a smart sister? Oh boy, will I tell Fats and Shrimpy. Mom, can I get tell Fats and Shrimpy? I gotta. Mom! You don't want me to bust, do you Mom? Hey, Sis, how does it feel to be rich? Hey, Sis—yi yippy ye-e-e—tense, an angry red rising from her throat to stain her cheeks."

"Oh! Clara can't take it!" Bill gibed, still on the gallop. "Lookit her. She's gonna' blow up!"

The taunt unleashed Clara's tongue, thick with malice. "You did this on purpose, Marilyn Marsh," she said wilyly. "You fixed it so you'd get this telegram right after I'd won the contest. You couldn't stand to have me get ahead of you. You can't bear it because you're plain—because I got the good looks of the family. You think you can make me look cheap. You think you can show people how much better it is to have brains than beauty. You schemed to cheat me out of the attention I'd get as a beauty contest winner. But you won't get away with it! You hear me, you won't get away with it. I won't let you, I'll I'll—"

The lash of her sister's malice stung Marilyn to speech.

"Clara," shock was leaving her a little weak, "have you gone out of your mind completely?"

Clara drew the bow of her lips to a hard straight line. "I was never more sane," she said, "more clear-headed. Clear enough to see your cute game, my bright sister. You can wire back to those fools, whoever they are, and tell them you don't want their cheap money—you won't accept it. You wire 'em now, this very evening, before the newspaper gets hold of it. Bill can take the wire down to the office."

Bill yowled defiance. "Me send back a whole thousand dollars of sis's money? Like heck I will! She won it, didn't she, same as you, only sis ain't a beauty nut. Dad, does sis have to send back her own good money she earned just 'cause ol' Clara is such a doggone drip? Does she? Dad?"

Marilyn folded the yellow paper, returned it to its envelope, slipped them into a patch pocket of her cotton dress. "Take it easy, Bill," she said evenly. "There will be no need for you to go to the telegraph office. I haven't the slightest notion of refusing the Clarco award."

"Ma, Pa," Clara was in a frenzy of hate, of resentment. "Are you going to stand there like a couple of numbskulls and let her cheat me—are you going to stand by and—"

Marilyn turned to go into the house. At the top of the steps she paused and said, "You shouldn't do it, Clara, whip yourself into a foam. When you do, you're really quite ugly."

Clara's strangled scream followed her into the dim hall.

Marilyn did not come down for supper.

"I'm fagged out," she said when her mother tapped on her door, "aged her to take 'just a bite' so's you won't get headaches. 'Put a sandwich on a plate, there's a lamb,' she begged. Bill will bring it to me. And a glass of milk. I'll nibble and sip while I rest."

Mrs. Marsh did not insist. Such a day! No wonder her girls were upset. It might be better to keep them apart while they were so high-strung like this. Dear Clara was just a bundle of nerves. A bundle. Whatever made her say such crazy things? Of course she didn't mean a word she said. Just dear Clara's temper.

Marilyn slipped into her blue kimono (most of the pink flowers had been washed out of it). "The luxury of communion with an old friend," she mused, and pulled the soft blue folds close to her. She paced the room, flung herself on her bed, rose hastily and stood gazing out of the window, seeing nothing. She was hugging her good fortune. Dreaming dreams. Building fantastic castles, only to topple them over and start building new and more dazzling ones. Dreams. Castles. None of them would come true, none of them real, but it was fun to pretend.

In the morning Marilyn snatched a cup of coffee, made gestures with a piece of toast, and hummed her way out of the house in a great hurry. Clara always slept late, and breakfasted in bed. Marilyn's humming and toast were for benefit of her mother, who was still in a flutter.

In the Bon Ton General Store, over a box of books they were unpacking, Marilyn told Sally Meacham, her friend and co-worker, she had won the Clarco prize award. Sally collapsed into the book box. When thumpings on the back had been administered, she revived into a spluttering tangle of words, exclamations, points, questions, marks and squeals of delight peppered between "oh—dear—me's!" and "hot cricketies!"

"Lynn Marsh," she gasped, "what in the name of Christmas are you doing in this dump, with a fortune like that on your hands?"

"I'm unpacking books, pal, or I was, until you went limp on me." Marilyn placed two volumes on the shelf, stood back to admire the effect. "You remember me. I'm the other girl who works in this department."

Sally folded her arms, fixed an accusing eye on her friend. "Do you mean you're going on slaving for Bon Ton with all that gold in the vault?"

"Stop clowning, Sally," Marilyn continued placing books. "That pot of gold is not going to keep the Marshes in cake and custard. Every dollar of the thousand has its job cut out for it. Meantime, yours devotedly will be right here in the emporium collecting the weekly stipend."

"S'pose you sneak a dollar or so away from the pile before the creditors get wise to it, and let's go to the Silver Grill for lunch. Something in cream sauce and a salad that crunches. What say, Lucky Break?"

"I say, 'Yes ma'am, and a plate of peach ice cream with angel food trimmings.'"

The Silver Grill, catering strictly to Millville's upper brackets and boasting a modern setting of chromium, billious blue stucco walls and black fittings, was less than half-filled at noon-time. For the most part, Millville ate what was placed in front of it, not from menus. Millville's pocketbooks were galled to quantity rather than to quality. Marilyn and Sally were shown to a table for two, near the entrance. Marilyn was studying the menu when Sally leaned forward and lowered her voice to say:

"Don't look now, Lynn, but the Queen of Beauty is just coming in with a gentleman camp follower."

"Clara?" Marilyn glued her eyes to the menu. Clara must not catch her looking. No telling what might happen when Clara was in a mood. "Who's the meal ticket?"

"I don't know, but from the visual evidence I'd say he's a city slicker. Dark and glossy. Say—"

I catch on. He's that chap who's been running the beauty contest at the Bijou. Clara's dripping honey. He's not looking so well. Maybe he doesn't like honey."

Clara Marsh was drinking deep draughts of the heady wine of conquest. She was an acclaimed beauty. As she entered the Silver Grill with a handsome stranger, she was so absorbed in putting on her act of elegant detachment that she did not indulge her desire to quest the room in search of envy and admiration. Not until she was seated opposite Al Martino in a pose of bright expectancy did she notice the two young women at a table near the front of the grill. Sally Meacham! And of all the tough luck, just when she was on the verge of the big thrill—Marilyn. What was her sister doing in the Silver Grill? How could that snip of a Meacham? How could they afford to eat in the best place in town?

Clara felt the surge of anger that had shaken her the evening before when Marilyn waved the telegram announcing the Clarco award over the heads of her stunned family. Had Marilyn known she, Clara, was to be here with Al Martino? But no, she couldn't possibly. Clara hadn't been sure herself she could manage it until the last minute. She'd ignore the interlopers, pretend she didn't see them.

At that moment Sally caught Clara's narrowed eyes, smiled, waved familiarly. Clara favored her with a cold stare.

"Darling, the Queen is looking right through me with those big china blue eyes," Sally chuckled. "She's wiring me I'm not to dare let on I know her. So I'll wave again, to show her she can't shush me. Umm. This time her boy friend saw me. He's speaking to her, asking her who the two ravishing femmes at this table are. Especially you, Lynn. He's getting two eyefuls of you—"

Will INTERRUPT All Programs to Broadcast Important News Flashes

NEWS FLASHES of all important happenings—from all over the world—will come to you first over WGST. This is assured because we have at our disposal the combined news gathering facilities of the Columbia Broadcasting System's entire staff of domestic and foreign correspondents and their strategically located short-wave stations... The Atlanta Constitution's three globe-circling news services as well as their entire reporting staff... In addition to these we have Transradio News Service machines located right in our own studios... This array of unsurpassed facilities means the quickest, most accurate and complete radio news service that any station can possibly give.

These facilities will be utilized fully. In addition to giving our listeners more than 15 regularly scheduled newscasts each day, we will interrupt any program regardless of its nature to broadcast important news bulletins.

Take advantage of this greater newscasting service. Keep your dial tuned to WGST (890 kc.) at all times!

STRANGE—The country's supreme sneezer, Ed Gusweiler, of Cincinnati, will open 1940's official hay fever season with a defiant challenge to the dread ragweed pollen on the Strange As It Seems program during its broadcast to be heard over WGST at 7:30 o'clock tonight. Gusweiler, who is president of the Hay Fever Association of America, will reveal how members of his club turn their perennial affliction into a blessing. Listen to an interview with Alois Havrilla.

The club was founded in 1928 by 41 sufferers at Sault Ste. Marie, a noted pollen-free district in Michigan. Making the best of their enforced vacation, they organized, drew up their rules, and quickly won a charter under the laws of the State of Michigan. Now numbering over 400 members, the "Ca-Choo" Club meets annually from August 10 to September 20.

MUSIC HALL—Bob Burns becomes "Summer Keeper of the Music Hall" with the broadcast to be heard over WSB at 8 o'clock tonight, when he will be visited by such entertainment stalwarts as Fay Bainter, Dorothy Lamour, Ray Milland and Winger "Sultan of Swing" Malone. Bob's regular backlist of talent will consist of Ken Carpenter, the Music Males and John Scott Trotter's orchestra. Though Ray Milland has made love to Dorothy Lamour in many a motion picture with the South seas as its locale, this is one of their few joint radio appearances. As a matter of fact, Milland has a hard time recalling when he's seen Dorothy wearing something besides her well-known sarong. She'll sing a few numbers during the festivities.

HENRY—Charges of creating a transportation monopoly stop Henry Aldrich and his pal Homer during "The Aldrich Family" broadcast over WSB at 7:30 o'clock tonight. Henry and Homer, all set for a transcontinental tour in their newly acquired motor vehicle, advertise for riders whom they will carry "as far as you want to go for $10." Business booms and the Aldrich family residence takes on the appearance of a crowded bus terminal. Henry and Homer are millionaires in fancy until they learn of the cost of obtaining a permit. A job cutting grass for 10 cents an hour looks good after this.

"White Elephants"—just another name for dollars that are standing idle in the spare articles of household furniture in your home. Start them traveling with a Constitution Want Ad in the Household Goods columns.
